Part 1: The explainer

1. The basics from zero

1.1 What mascara is, in one minute

- Mascara is a thick black (or brown) liquid that you brush onto your eyelashes (the short hairs that grow from the edge of the eyelid). It coats each hair, so the lashes look darker, longer, thicker and more curled.
- It comes in a small tube. The cap is attached to a thin stick with a little brush on the end. That brush is called the wand.
- Think of it as paint for eyelash hairs. A light-coloured, thin, short lash almost disappears against the skin. Painted black and made a little thicker, it shows up. That outlines the eye, so the eye looks bigger and more "awake".
- It is the most-used single piece of eye makeup. A professional makeup artist of 25 years: "if I only had one thing of makeup to take, what would you take? mascara" (Michelle Spieler, Y3).
- It washes off. Nothing in a normal mascara changes the lash itself for good.

1.2 Eyelashes: what they are and how they grow

Before mascara makes sense, you need to know what it is painted on.

Fact	Plain meaning	Source
The upper lid has 90–160 lashes in 5–6 rows; the lower lid has 75–80 in 3–4 rows.	The top row is the one mascara is mainly for. The bottom row is sparser and shorter.	S13 (Aumond & Bitton 2018, a review in Journal of Optometry)
A lash grows 0.12–0.14 mm a day.	About 1 mm in a week. Much slower than you'd notice.	S13
Each lash lives through 3 phases: growing (anagen), shrinking (catagen), resting (telogen). Then it falls out and a new one starts.	Like a queue: each lash grows, stops, rests, drops out, and is replaced.	S13
The growing phase lasts 4–10 weeks; one whole life cycle takes 4–11 months.	Because growing is short, lashes stay short. Scalp hair grows for years; lashes for weeks.	S13
A lash rarely gets longer than 12 mm.	About half an inch.	S13

Fact	Plain meaning	Source
Lashes are naturally curved in everyone. Curl is stronger on average in white people than in Asian people (the review says "Caucasians as compared to Asians").	Why some women's lashes point straight out or down and need a curler.	S13
Each lash root has little glands beside it (Zeis and Moll glands) that make an oily and a watery secretion. Behind the lash line sit about 50 meibomian glands on the top lid and 30 or so on the bottom, which make the oil layer of your tears.	The lash line is a busy, oily, wet place. That is why mascara can smudge there, and why gunk left there can upset the eye.	S13; meibomian counts from ophthalmologist Dr Rupa Wong, Y14, Y15
Lashes are there to protect the eye. In a wind-tunnel study using model eyes (based on the eyes of many animals), the best lash length was about one-third of the eye's width: it halved the particles landing on the lashes and halved tear evaporation (tears drying off the eye).	Lashes are not only for looks. Damaging them matters.	S13

What happens to lashes with age

Change	Evidence	Source
Shorter. Average upper lash length was 7.98 mm at ages 22–29 and 6.39 mm at 50–65 (179 women).	That is about 20% shorter.	S12 (Glaser 2014; Allergan is among the authors' affiliations. Allergan makes Latisse, a prescription lash-growth drug whose active ingredient is bimatoprost, a prostaglandin; see the glossary and pack 4)
Thinner. Average thickness fell from 1.62 (ages 20–29) to 1.17 (50–65) in the study's units.	Each hair carries less colour and less bulk.	S12
"Darker or lighter" is unclear. The study concludes lashes get lighter, but its own darkness numbers seem to point the other way.	So "lashes go lighter with age" is not proven.	S12, as noted in
Lashes turn grey only at a very advanced age and rarely go white, unlike scalp hair.	Most women over 60 still have dark lashes; they are just fewer and finer.	S13
The curve of the lower lashes near the nose and middle increases with age.	Lower lashes can point more downward or inward.	S13 (citing Procianoy)

Change	Evidence	Source
Makeup artist Scott Barnes, as quoted in a video: lashes "get thinner and less dense as women get older because hormones shift and the follicles spend more time resting than growing".	A second-hand quote; no study given.	quote in Y2; treat as an expert's view, not proof
The skin around the eye thins and folds over: hooded lids (extra skin that hangs over the crease, the fold line between the eyelid and the brow area, and sometimes touches the lashes).	Lashes touch skin, so mascara prints onto the lid.	Nina Ubhi, Y7: "your eyes are maybe becoming more and more hooded… you've got excess skin around that area. So, things are touching now"
Tears get less stable; eyes can be drier and water more.	Watery eyes break down some mascaras.	Y2 ("Tear production also drops, which sounds backwards, but means mature eyes water more"); Dr Rupa, Y15
Eyesight changes (reading glasses, cataracts: the clear lens inside the eye going cloudy, fixed by an operation) make close work harder.	People can't see their lashes well enough to apply.	comment: "When I had my cataract surgery, I bought a 10X mirror so I could see up close." (@adriennekushner1968, Y5, 42 likes)

Can mascara damage lashes?

- In 36 Japanese women aged 20–70, the more often they wore mascara, the more the lash surface was cracked (the cuticle, the thin outer layer of overlapping scales on every hair, like roof tiles) and the more porous (full of tiny holes) the inside of the lash was. Using a lash curler made no significant difference. S14 (Fukami 2014).
- The same review notes long-term mascara users can lose lashes, "possibly due to the rubbing" when removing it S13.
- So the main risk to lashes is how mascara comes off, not the colour sitting on them. That is why removal is such a big theme with older women.

1.3 How mascara works: the science in kitchen-table words

What is in almost every mascara S25, S13, Y8, Y11:

Part	What it is	Kitchen comparison	What it does
Pigment	Usually black iron oxide (on labels: "Iron Oxides (CI 77499)"); sometimes a little blue (ultramarines) to make the black look deeper. Pigments are about 0.5–10% of a mascara.	Like the soot in shoe polish.	Gives the colour.

Part	What it is	Kitchen comparison	What it does
Waxes	Beeswax, carnauba (from palm leaves), paraffin and similar.	Like candle wax softened into a paste.	Give body. Thicken the lash. Help it hold its shape.
Film formers (polymers)	Plastic-like ingredients that dry into a thin, flexible skin. Usually 1–8% of the formula.	Like PVA school glue or hairspray drying into a clear film.	Hold the colour on, stop it moving, help hold curl. A cosmetic chemist: these are "borrowed from hairspray… it's like hair gel, it's holding the lashes where you want them" (Y8).
Liquid base	Water (most mascaras) or a fast-drying oil-like solvent such as isododecane (a clear, thin, oil-like liquid made from petroleum that evaporates within minutes) (waterproof mascaras).	Water vs. nail-polish thinner.	Keeps it runny in the tube, then evaporates on the lash.
Emulsifiers	Ingredients that let oil and water mix.	Like egg yolk in mayonnaise.	Hold water, waxes and oils together as a cream.
Preservatives	Ingredients that stop bacteria and mould.	Like the salt in jam.	Vital: a mascara wand goes from eye to tube every day.
"Care" extras	Oils, panthenol (vitamin B5), peptides, vitamin E.	The "added vitamins" on a cereal box.	Marketing appeal; may soften lashes.

- "Mascaras are generally emulsions, meaning that they're mixtures of water and oil or lipid based substances like waxes" (cosmetic chemist Ramón Pagán, Y8).
- An eye-care review: "Water-based mascara is made of several waxes, types of pigment and resins dissolved in water, whereas solvent-based mascara, known as waterproof, has its pigments and waxes added in petroleum distillates" S13.

How it's made Y11 (Refinery29, inside Maybelline's Great Lash factory, 2.26M views):

1. Waxes and stiffening agents are melted so the mix isn't too runny.
2. Oils and pigment are added for colour and texture. Waterproof versions get a "water-rebuffing" ingredient.
3. Everything is mixed and heated until it becomes the dark paste.
4. The batch is tested (Maybelline uses a light-splitting machine, a spectrometer, to check the make-up of each batch).
5. Tubes stand upright on a conveyor; the mascara is pumped in.
6. A clear plastic plug called the wiper goes into the neck. It scrapes extra mascara off the wand as you pull it out, so the brush isn't overloaded.
7. The wand goes in, labels go on, more checks, then shipping.

The wand and the wiper matter as much as the liquid. A chemist says brands hold patents on how wand bristles are spaced and shaped (Y8).

1.4 History and trend: why people are buying it now

History S21 (sources disagree on some dates; disagreements shown) | When | What happened | |---|---| | Ancient times | People darkened eyes and lashes with soot-based mixtures for thousands of years. | | 1800s | Eugène Rimmel sold a petroleum-jelly-based lash darkener. Dates given vary: 1830s, 1860, about 1880. In several languages "rimmel" still means mascara. Queen Victoria's perfumer is also said to have mixed coal dust and petroleum jelly (Y11). | | 1915–1917 | Maybel Williams darkened her lashes with a similar mix; her brother T.L. Williams sold a version by mail. The company became Maybelline (Mabel + Vaseline). Most sources say 1917; the Refinery29 video says 1915. | | 1957 or 1958 | Helena Rubinstein's Mascara-Matic: the first tube with a built-in wand. Most sources say 1957; Wikipedia says 1958. | | 1971 | Maybelline Great Lash (pink and green tube), often called the first water-based mascara. Maybelline said in 2018 that one is sold every two seconds (Y11). | | About 1995 | Blinc introduces the first tubing mascara (sold in Japan as "Kiss Me"). Some sources say 1999. | | 2017 | Thrive Causemetics launches Liquid Lash Extensions (tubing), now a cult product with over-50 women. | | 2018–2026 | Big brands pile into tubing: L'Oréal Double Extend (2018), Merit and Caliray (2021), Tarte Tartelette Tubing (2022), Too Faced and Urban Decay (2025), CoverGirl (Feb 2026). |

Why now S19 (Beauty Independent, a beauty-business news site, 6 Feb 2026). The article takes its figures from four companies: Allied Market Research (the $6.4bn) and Market Intelo (the $1.42bn), both market-research firms; Spate (the search figures), a company that tracks what people search for on Google; and Quilt AI (the 51%), a company that uses AI to read what people say online.

- Mascara sales were estimated at about $6.4 billion in 2022, projected to more than double by 2032. The tubing slice alone was estimated at about $1.42 billion in 2024.
- Google searches for "tubing mascara" rose 35.2% year on year; from Oct 2024 to Sep 2025 searches rose 9.1%.
- The top theme in what shoppers say online is confusion (Quilt AI): 51% of the conversation is basic questions like "tubing mascara what is". Tubing mascaras at Sephora (a large make-up shop chain) cost about $14–$34.
- In 159 comments on over-40/50/60 mascara videos, the top complaints were hard removal (19), smudging (14), price (11) and giving up mascara (10) S5.

Three forces meet: an ageing audience whose lashes and lids have changed, a newly popular formula type (tubing) that solves smudging and hard removal, and a "skincare in makeup" fashion (peptides, conditioning) borrowed from lash serums. Luxe's mascara is pitched at exactly that meeting point.

1.5 The types of mascara

By formula (what's in the tube)

Type	How it works, plainly	Good for	Bad for	How it comes off	Examples
Regular ("washable")	A water-and-wax cream. Dries as a soft coat of coloured wax on the lash.	Volume, cheap, easy to layer.	Oily lids, rich eye creams, tears and heat soften the wax → smudges and flakes.	Soap and water, micellar water, cleansing oil.	Essence Lash Princess, L'Oréal Lash Paradise Washable, Maybelline Sky High Washable, Grande GrandeMASCARA
Waterproof	Little or no water. The wax and pigment sit in a fast-drying solvent; once it evaporates, what's left won't dissolve in water. "Waterproof mascaras are completely water-free, meaning they are anhydrous" (Y8).	Crying, swimming, humidity, holding a curl.	Removal needs an oil or two-phase remover and rubbing; can dry lashes; makeup artist: "really harsh on the lashes over time and very drying" (Y3). Still breaks down with very oily lids: "oil loves oil" (Y8).	Oil cleanser or bi-phase remover.	Bobbi Brown No Smudge, Lash Princess Waterproof, Sky High Waterproof
Tubing	Lots of water-based film formers. As it dries it wraps each lash in a tiny plastic-like sleeve. "Think of hollow spaghetti… putting little straws around your lashes because it uses a polymer blend" (makeup artist, Y3).	Oily or hooded lids, smudging, flaking, gentle removal, sensitive eyes.	Less volume; can break down with warm tears, humidity, sweat or eye drops; some versions dry out; some only allow 1–2 coats.	Warm water and gentle pressure: the sleeves slide off in little tubes. "It will not come off with… micellar water… it will come off with warm hot water" (Y3).	Thrive Liquid Lash Extensions, Tarte Tartelette Tubing, Clinique Lash Power, Blinc, L'Oréal Double Extend, Essence "Bye Bye Panda Eyes", Hourglass Unlocked

Fibre	Regular mascara with tiny nylon, rayon or bamboo threads that stick to the lash tips to add length.	Length on short lashes.	Fibres shed into the eye; trouble for contact lenses and sensitive eyes. Video: "Fiber formulas shed, and those loose fibers fall into the eye, where they can scratch the cornea" (Y2). (The cornea is the clear front window of the eye.)	Like regular, but watch for fibres in the eye.	MAC Magic Extension 5mm Fibre; Sky High says it has bamboo "fibers" (Y6)
"Conditioning" / serum-infused	Any of the above plus "care" ingredients: peptides, panthenol, oils, vitamins.	Appeal for people who worry about lash health.	No mascara-level study shows growth; the care ingredients are usually tiny amounts and wash off at night.	Depends on the base.	Grande GrandeMASCARA (regular base), Tarte Tartelette XL "with Peptide" (tubing base), Luxe (base not published)
Primer / base coat	A white or clear coat put on first.	More length; makeup artist saw longer lashes on the primed eye (Y3).	An extra step; can make clumps.	Like the mascara on top.	Lancôme Cils Booster, Grande Primer, L'Oréal Voluminous Superstar (two-ended)

By job (what it is trying to do)

- Lengthening: thinner formula, comb-like brush; separated, longer lashes.
- Volumising: thicker formula, fuller brush; more bulk, risk of clumps.
- Curling / lifting: stiffer film and often a curved brush to hold lashes up.
- Defining / separating: clean, "natural" lashes, no clumps.
- Most products claim several at once. What you actually get depends mostly on the brush and how much wax and film former is in the formula. A commenter: "I've always thought it's not the mascara, it's the brush!" (@BMc-hm2pb, 21 likes, Y6 comments).

Waterproof vs water-resistant vs washable

- Waterproof: won't come off with water; needs an oily remover.
- Water-resistant: survives a bit of water and sweat; still comes off with warm water or normal cleanser. Thrive calls its tubing mascara "water-resistant" (S7).
- Washable: a regular formula that comes off with soap and water.
- A product cannot sensibly be both waterproof and "comes off with warm water". The Luxe page says both (see 2.4).

1.6 Brushes and wands

Brush	What it looks like	What it does	Who it suits
Fibre (bristle) brush	Twisted wire with soft nylon bristles, like a tiny bottle brush.	Holds more formula; gives volume.	Fuller look; risk of clumps on sparse lashes.
Silicone / moulded brush	Rubber-like spikes or combs.	Separates and combs; holds less formula.	Length and separation; short lashes. Sky High's "Flex Tower" brush "bends" (Y6).
Thin / slim / "precision" brush	Very narrow.	Reaches tiny inner-corner lashes and lower lashes without painting the skin.	Short, sparse lashes; lower lashes; hooded eyes.
Tapered tip	Narrows to a point.	Picks up corner lashes. Dominique Sachse: "I love this pointed tip… great for just grabbing these outer corner lashes" (Y6).	Short lashes, corners.
Curved brush	Banana-shaped.	Follows the curve of the eye; helps hold lift. Chemist: "that curled shape basically is mirroring the curve of your eyeball and eyelashes" (Y8).	Straight lashes.
Hourglass / "number eight"	Fat at ends, thin in the middle.	Big volume.	Drama; not ideal on sparse lashes.
Flat / paddle	Flat on one side, combed on the other.	Flat side loads the root, comb separates (Charlotte Tilbury Pillow Talk Push Up, Y1; Telescopic, Y3).	Lift.
Ball tip	A tiny ball at the end.	Corners and lower lashes (Y18).	Lower lashes.

Brush	What it looks like	What it does	Who it suits
Tubing brushes	Usually short, evenly spaced bristles, straight and tapered. Chemist: "the bristles are short and they're very evenly spaced so that you can get basically around every individual lash" (Y8).	Lays the sleeve evenly.	—

Extra tools:

- Spoolie: a clean, dry mascara-style brush used to comb out clumps.
- Lash comb: a fine metal or plastic comb that separates lashes after mascara (Y18). Never use a pin: "you could inadvertently stab your eye" (dermatologist Dr Dray, Y12).
- Eyelash curler: a metal clamp with a rubber pad that bends lashes upward. Heated curler: a warm wand used after mascara (makeup artist Aran P, Y18).

1.7 Glossary: every word the operator will hear

Word	Plain meaning
Lash line	The edge of the eyelid where lashes grow.
Root / base	Where the lash comes out of the lid. Mascara applied here makes lashes look thicker and the eye more outlined.
Tips	The ends of the lashes.
Upper / lower lashes	Top row / bottom row.
Inner / outer corner	The end of the eye nearest the nose / nearest the ear.
Waterline	The wet inner rim of the eyelid, behind the lashes.
Tightlining	Putting liner into the upper waterline. An ophthalmologist advises against it: "it blocks those meibomian glands" (Y14).
Wand	The stick-and-brush attached to the cap.
Wiper	The plastic ring inside the tube neck that scrapes off extra formula.
Spoolie	A clean mascara-style brush for combing lashes.
Coat	One layer of mascara. "Two coats" = two passes.
Building / buildable	Adding coats for more effect without it going lumpy.
Clumping / clumps	Lashes stuck together in thick spikes ("spider legs", "four thick spikes").
Flaking	Dry bits of mascara breaking off and falling under the eye ("black confetti").
Smudging / transfer	Mascara rubbing onto the skin above or below the eye.
Raccoon eyes / panda eyes	Grey-black smudges under the eyes from mascara (or eyeliner).

Word	Plain meaning
Hooded eyes / hooded lids	Extra lid skin that hangs over the crease, so the moving lid is hidden and touches the lashes. Common with age.
Crepey	Thin, finely wrinkled skin, like crepe paper.
Tubing mascara	A mascara that wraps each lash in a tiny sleeve and comes off with warm water.
Waterproof	Won't come off with water; needs oil-based remover.
Water-resistant	Survives some water; still comes off fairly easily.
Washable	Regular mascara that comes off with soap and water.
Fibre mascara	Contains tiny threads to add length.
Lengthening / volumising / curling	Mascara aims: longer, thicker, lifted.
Primer / base coat	A first coat under mascara for more length.
Lash curler	Clamp that bends lashes up.
Heated lash curler	Warm wand used after mascara to set curl.
Lash lift	A salon (or home-kit) chemical perm that curls lashes for weeks. Luxe's main product line is lash-lift kits (S5).
Lash extensions	Single fake lashes glued to your own lashes by a technician; last weeks. "Extension friendly" mascara has no oil that would loosen the glue. Blinc: "there's no oil in the formula that can harm the extension adhesive" (Y10).
False lashes / strip lashes	A strip of fake lashes glued along the lash line for a day.
Lash serum	A liquid painted on the lash line at night to make lashes grow or look fuller. Luxe sells one (pack 4).
Prostaglandin (analog)	The drug-type ingredient in strong lash serums (e.g. bimatoprost in Latisse, a prescription lash-growth drug). Works, but can turn the iris (the coloured ring of the eye) browner, which the Latisse label calls "likely to be permanent" (pack 4, its source S7, the Latisse label). Dr Rupa Wong mentions redness and stinging, and says some mascaras contain one (isopropyl cloprostenate) (Y15).
Peptide	A short chain of amino acids (the building blocks of protein), like a few beads on a string. In cosmetics, a "signal" ingredient said to support skin or hair.
Conditioning	Adding softening and moisturising ingredients so lashes feel less dry and brittle.
Panthenol	Pro-vitamin B5; a moisture-holding hair conditioner.
Film former / polymer	Plastic-like ingredient that dries into a thin, flexible film.
Emulsion	A cream where oil and water are mixed (like mayonnaise).
Anhydrous	"Without water". Waterproof mascaras are anhydrous.

Word	Plain meaning
INCI / ingredient list	The official list of ingredients on the box, in standard names.
Hypoallergenic	"Less likely to cause allergy", but in the US the word has no legal definition (FDA, the US Food and Drug Administration, the government body that oversees cosmetics and medicines; S10).
Ophthalmologist-tested	Tested by an eye doctor. Can mean very little: "could simply mean as they send me a product in the mail, give me a survey and I mail it back" (ophthalmologist Dr Rupa Wong, Y15).
pH balanced	Close to the natural acidity of tears and skin, so less likely to sting. Not regulated.
Fragrance-free	No added perfume. Fragrance is a common cause of eyelid allergy (Y12, Y15).
Ophthalmologist	Eye doctor (medical). Optometrist: eye-care professional who tests eyes and fits lenses.
Meibomian glands	Oil glands along the lid edge that keep tears from drying. Can be blocked by makeup.
Blepharitis	Inflamed, crusty, itchy lid edges.
Stye	A painful pimple-like bump on the lid.
Contact dermatitis	Red, itchy, swollen skin from touching something you react to. Eyelids are a top site, and mascara is a listed cause (S16).
Micellar water	A water-like cleanser with tiny cleansing droplets; used on a cotton pad.
Bi-phase (two-phase) remover	A remover with an oil layer and a water layer; shake before use. For waterproof makeup.
Cleansing oil / balm	An oil or melting balm that dissolves makeup, then rinses off.
PFAS / "forever chemicals"	Fluorine-based chemicals that resist water and oil and don't break down. Found in many waterproof cosmetics (S20).
Cruelty-free / Leaping Bunny	Not tested on animals. Leaping Bunny is an independent certification.
Carbon black / jet black / brown-black / soft black	Shades: deepest black → softer black with brown. Brown-black is often recommended for fair, mature skin (Y2).
Dupe	A cheaper product that copies a pricier one.
Drugstore / prestige	Cheap supermarket/pharmacy brands / department-store brands.
FDA	The US Food and Drug Administration, the government body that sets the rules for cosmetics and medicines in the US.
ASIN	Amazon's own product code (10 letters and numbers). Each Amazon listing has one.

Word	Plain meaning
Shopify feed	Luxe's online shops are built on Shopify, a common online-shop system. Every Shopify shop publishes its product data (names, prices, images, descriptions) in a public file; that file is the "feed".
asinsight	A website (asinsight.com) that publishes reports estimating Amazon sales, prices and star ratings for a search term.
Fallout	Bits of mascara that drop off the lashes onto the cheeks or into the eye.
Cluster lashes	Small bunches of fake lashes glued under or onto your own lashes, instead of a full strip.
Lid wipes	Ready-soaked pads for cleaning the eyelid edge, sold for eye health.
Artificial tears	Eye drops that copy natural tears, for dry eyes. "Preservative-free" ones come in single-use vials.
Tear film	The thin layer of tears (water, oil and mucus) that covers the front of the eye.
Menopause	The time, usually around 45–55, when periods stop and hormone levels drop.
Patch test	Trying a little of a new product on a small patch of skin first (e.g. behind the ear or on the inner arm) and waiting a day or two to see if it reacts.
Dermatologist	A skin doctor (medical).

Everyday make-up and face words (used in sections 3–5)

Word	Plain meaning
Foundation	A skin-coloured liquid or cream spread over the face to even out the skin colour.
Tinted moisturiser	A moisturising cream with a little skin colour in it; a lighter version of foundation.
Concealer	A thicker skin-coloured cream dabbed on dark circles or spots to hide them.
Loose powder / setting powder	A fine, nearly invisible powder dusted over the skin to soak up oil so make-up stays put.
Blush	Pink or peach colour put on the cheeks.
Eyeshadow	Coloured powder or cream put on the eyelid.
Eyeshadow primer	A thin cream put on the eyelid first so anything on top (and lashes touching the lid) doesn't slide or smudge.
Eyeliner	A pencil or liquid used to draw a line along the lash line.
Brows	The eyebrows. "Doing your brows" means filling them in with a pencil or powder.
Crease	The fold line where the eyelid meets the area under the brow.
Moving lid	The part of the eyelid that moves when you blink, between the lashes and the crease.
Brow bone	The ridge of bone under the eyebrow, and the skin over it.

Word	Plain meaning
Deep-set eyes	Eyes that sit further back in the face, under a more prominent brow bone, so the lashes are harder to reach.
Iris	The coloured ring of the eye (blue, green, brown).
Cornea	The clear front window of the eye. A scratch on it hurts and can get infected.
"Baby Jane" (Bette Davis)	The 1962 film What Ever Happened to Baby Jane?, in which Bette Davis plays an ageing woman in heavy, smeared, over-done make-up. Commenters use it to mean "over-made-up and frightening".
"Tammy Faye"	Tammy Faye Bakker, a US TV presenter famous for very heavy, clumpy mascara. Used to mean "far too much mascara".

Price, Amazon	UK £14.99 ("lowest price in 30 days"; list £18.99). US: not found. Waterproof US sibling: $24.95 in one snippet.	S4
Stars on Amazon	UK 4.0 (73 ratings); Canada 3.6 (93). US: not found. Waterproof listing B0G65JT2QJ: US 3.0 (8), Canada 2.6 (16). The only review text seen: "A great mascara that does not clump and is a pretty color" (review #287).	S4 and finishing-pass snippets; capture dates unknown

Field	What was found	Label and source
How long one lasts	Brand: not stated. FDA: "Manufacturers usually recommend discarding mascara two to four months after purchase."	S9
On sale since	Brand's store record created 6 Dec 2023; over-50 copy dated 26 Aug 2026; Amazon listing probably 2026.	S5

In daily use, a tube is thrown away for hygiene and drying out, not because it is empty. Budget for 4–6 tubes a year if worn daily and replaced every 2–3 months.

2.2 What it looks, feels and smells like

	What was found	Label
Tube	Slim, straight, metallic rose-gold/pink cylinder with a black neck. Printed vertically: "Luxe | Conditioning Peptide Mascara". In one brand image the tube appears to read "Luxe | Waterproof Conditioning...".	brand product images, S3
Wand	Straight, slightly tapered, dense dark bristles; looks like a fibre (bristle) brush, not silicone spikes. The brand calls it a "precision wand", "small precision brush", "Magic Wand Reaches Every Single Lash".	S3 images; S1, S2 wording. Judged from photos only.
Formula	Black, "featherlight", "water-based", "wraps each lash in a thin, buildable coat"; an ad calls it "Korean Lash-Casting... a light, flexible cast" / "a soft, flexible tube".	S1, S2. This is how tubing formulas are described. Not confirmed without an ingredient list.
Look on lashes (brand images)	Close-up before/after eye photos show longer, separated, fanned lashes.	S3
Look on lashes (independent)	Only one short video was found (Cassi, 1,102 views, 18 Oct 2026): "Do you see the separation? Absolutely zero clumps and the length it gave me... This isn't even a full coat. It's like 3/4 of a coat." An AI viewing of the video saw "dense fiber bristles", a "wet" black formula and "well-separated" lashes with "no visible clumps", on a rose-gold tube.	Y20. The AI viewer read the tube's printed word as "divi"; the rose-gold tube matches Luxe's, so this is most likely Luxe's vertical "Luxe" text misread (not confirmed by eye).
Smell	Not found. The brand doesn't say "fragrance-free". None of the 80 reviews on Luxe's own page mentions a smell.	not found

	What was found	Label
Feel	Brand: "So lightweight you forget you're wearing it". Independent: not found. On Luxe's own page (brand's own site; 18 of its 80 reviews talk about texture, theme T3): "it is not crunchy or dry. it keeps my lashes looking soft" (#29); "it doesnt feel heavy or stiff at all" (#31); "it goes on smooth" (#35); "it feels lighter on my lashes and doesnt get dry and crumbly by the end of the day" (#45); "this stuff dries fast and doesnt move" (#53); "it doesnt feel crunchy like other waterproof types. very soft lashes" (#58); "its very lightweight" (#72); "I really like the consistency of this mascara" (#78).	S1; reviews #29–#78

2.3 Every ingredient, one by one

Luxe's own ingredient list is not published anywhere. Six Luxe shop feeds (the public product data each of Luxe's Shopify shops publishes; see the glossary), the product pages' full code, Amazon snippets and eBay were searched twice by two helpers; none gave a list S5. The brand names only "conditioning peptides" and "Luxe's ingredients" S1. US law requires retail cosmetics to declare ingredients on the label; "If neither the package nor the display rack provides the ingredient declaration, you aren't getting the information you're entitled to" S9. The box may carry a list; photograph it when the product arrives.

So below are two real, published lists from other brands, explained one by one, to show what is typically inside the two kinds of product Luxe's copy describes. Neither list is Luxe's.

How to read any list: in the US, ingredients above 1% are listed from most to least; those under 1% can come in any order (FDA labelling rule 21 CFR 701.3; not re-pulled today). So the first five or six ingredients are most of the product, and anything after the preservatives is a tiny amount.

A. A typical water-based tubing mascara: Thrive Causemetics Liquid Lash Extensions ("Brynn", rich black). TYPICAL EXAMPLE, NOT LUXE.

Source: Thrive's own product page S7. Thrive's page says it is "water-resistant", made in the USA, $26, 10.7 g. The plain-English functions are my reading, except where a source is named.

#	Ingredient (as printed)	What it is, plainly	What it does here
1	Aqua / Water	Water.	The base. Carries everything; evaporates as it dries. That's why tubing is "water-based".

#	Ingredient (as printed)	What it is, plainly	What it does here
2	Acrylates/Ethylhexyl Acrylate Copolymer	A plastic-like polymer spread through water as tiny particles (the same family as acrylic paint and water-based glues).	The tube-maker. As water leaves, the particles join into a flexible sleeve around the lash. Chemist: "the acrylate co-polymer, that's the water soluble polymer that makes tubing mascaras tube" Y8. Warm water softens it so it slides off.
3	Alcohol Denat.	Denatured alcohol (drinking alcohol made undrinkable).	Helps dissolve the polymers and speeds drying. Chemist: "it flashes off very quick so the impact on the lash and the eye is minimal to none" Y8. Some very sensitive eyes dislike alcohol near the eye.
4	Glyceryl Stearate SE	A fat-based cream-maker ("SE" = self-emulsifying).	Keeps the oils and water mixed; creamy texture.
5	Glycerin	A clear, sweet, sticky liquid that draws in water.	Keeps the formula moist in the tube and the film flexible on the lash.
6	Dimethicone	A silicone (smooth, slippery).	Glide while applying; soft feel.
7	VP/Eicosene Copolymer	An oil-loving film former.	Adds longer wear and water resistance. Chemist: "an oil soluble film former… helps to improve longevity" Y8.
8	Carnauba Wax	Hard wax from the leaves of a Brazilian palm (also used on cars and sweets).	Gives body and length; firmness.
9	Stearic Acid	A fatty acid (from plant or animal fats).	Combines with #12 to make a mild soap-like emulsifier; thickens.
10	Butyrospermum Parkii (Shea) Butter	Fat from shea nuts.	Softening "care" ingredient. Thrive: "Deeply conditions" S7.
11	Ricinus Communis (Castor) Seed Oil	Castor oil.	Softening "care" ingredient; the oil many women already put on lashes at night.
12	Tromethamine	A mild alkali.	Adjusts acidity (pH: a 0–14 scale of how acidic or alkaline something is; 7 is neutral like pure water, lemon juice is about 2, soap about 9–10); with #9 and #14 forms the emulsifier.
13	Phenoxyethanol	A common preservative.	Stops bacteria and mould growing in the tube.
14	Palmitic Acid	A fatty acid (palm or other fats).	Same job as #9.
15	Laureth-21	A detergent-type emulsifier.	Helps mix; helps the film release in warm water.

#	Ingredient (as printed)	What it is, plainly	What it does here
16	PVP (polyvinylpyrrolidone)	A water-soluble polymer used in hairspray.	Second film former. Chemist: "PVP, that's another water soluble polymer that we normally see in tubing mascaras" Y8.
17	Xanthan Gum	A natural thickener made by fermenting sugar (also in salad dressing).	Thickens; stops pigment sinking.
18	Sodium Dehydroacetate	A preservative.	Backs up #13.
19	Methylglucamine	A sugar-derived alkali.	Adjusts pH.
20	Ethylhexylglycerin	A mild glycerin relative.	Helps the preservatives work; softens.
21	Trisodium Ethylenediamine Disuccinate	A "chelator": grabs traces of metal in water.	Keeps the formula stable and helps preservatives work.
22	Panthenol	Pro-vitamin B5.	Holds moisture in hair; "care" claim.
23	Neofinetia Falcata Callus Culture Extract	Lab-grown cells from a Japanese orchid.	Thrive's "Orchid Stem Cell Complex"; a marketing extra in tiny amount.
24	Sodium Hyaluronate	Hyaluronic acid salt (moisture magnet).	"Care" extra.
25	Lecithin	A fat from soy or sunflower.	Helps mixing; softens.
26	Iron Oxides (CI 77499)	Black iron oxide (a mineral pigment).	The colour.

What this tells us:

- A tubing mascara is mostly water + film formers + a little wax + pigment + preservatives. The "care" ingredients sit low in the list.
- If Luxe really is a "lash-casting" tubing formula, expect a list that looks like this: water first, then an acrylates copolymer, probably alcohol, PVP or similar.
- Thrive's page also says: "Look for polymers in the ingredient list, as they create the tube-like effect around each lash" S7.

B. A typical "conditioning peptide" mascara: Grande Cosmetics GrandeMASCARA Conditioning Peptide Mascara. TYPICAL EXAMPLE, NOT LUXE.

Source: Grande's own page S6. $25; "Made in Italy"; "water resistant"; "May be removed with makeup remover or soap & water". Grande is the only rival that names its peptide. Note: this is a regular wax mascara, not tubing. Functions are my reading unless a source is named.

#	Ingredient	What it is, plainly	What it does here
1	Aqua/Water	Water.	The base.

#	Ingredient	What it is, plainly	What it does here
2	Paraffin	A wax made from petroleum (like candle wax).	Main body and thickness.
3	Iron Oxides (CI 77499)	Black mineral pigment.	The colour (high up the list = strong black).
4	Palmitic Acid	Fatty acid.	With #9 forms the classic mascara emulsifier.
5	Stearic Acid	Fatty acid.	Same.
6	Beeswax	Wax from honeycombs.	Grande: "The softer texture of beeswax helps to promote volume" S6.
7	Cholesterol	A natural fat-like substance (also in skin).	Softens; helps the film.
8	Copernicia Cerifera (Carnauba) Wax	Hard palm-leaf wax.	Grande: "a harder carnauba wax helps to extend them to their full length" S6.
9	Triethanolamine	A mild alkali.	Neutralises the fatty acids into a soap-like emulsifier; sets pH.
10	Ultramarines (CI 77007)	Blue mineral pigment.	Makes black look deeper/cooler.
11	Nylon-12	Fine nylon powder (not threads).	Adds body and a smooth, non-greasy feel. Not a "fibre mascara" ingredient.
12	Cetyl Esters	Synthetic wax.	Texture; softness.
13	Glycerin	Moisture-holder.	Keeps it moist and flexible.
14	Hydroxyethylcellulose	Thickener made from plant cellulose.	Thickens the water part.
15	Phenoxyethanol	Preservative.	Stops germs.
16	Aminomethyl Propanediol	Mild alkali.	Adjusts pH.
17	Panthenol	Pro-vitamin B5.	Grande: "Helps strengthen and nourish hair" S6.
18	Propylene Glycol	A moisture-holding liquid.	Keeps it from drying; helps spread.
19	Hydrated Silica	Fine silica powder.	Thickens; absorbs oil.
20	Ethylhexylglycerin	Preservative helper.	Helps #15.
21	Ascorbyl Palmitate	A fat-loving form of vitamin C.	Antioxidant: stops the oils going stale.
22	Disodium Phosphate	A salt.	Buffers pH.
23	Polysorbate-60	Emulsifier.	Helps mixing.
24	1,2-Hexanediol	Moisture-holder and preservative helper.	Backs up preservation.

#	Ingredient	What it is, plainly	What it does here
25	Caprylyl Glycol	Same family.	Same.
26	Tocopherol	Vitamin E.	Antioxidant.
27	Sodium Phosphate	A salt.	Buffers pH.
28	Benzoic Acid	Preservative.	Stops mould.
29	Myristoyl Pentapeptide-17	The peptide: a 5-amino-acid chain with a fatty tail (myristic acid) attached so it sticks and soaks in better.	Grande: "Helps to strengthen and fortify for healthier looking lashes" S6. A supplier sheet says it "has been shown to stimulate keratin genes in in-vitro studies" (keratin is the tough protein that hair, lashes and nails are made of; "in-vitro" = lab dishes, not people) S24. Near the end of the list = a very small amount.
30	Sodium Benzoate	Preservative.	Stops mould.
31	Glyoxal	A small reactive chemical.	Usually there to help the cellulose thickener (#14) mix in; trace amount.

What the peptide evidence is:

- PubMed search "myristoyl pentapeptide-17 eyelash" found 0 studies (S5).
- An ingredient database reports a 90-day study of 29 people (lash length +10.52%) but the study itself, its publisher and whether it had a comparison group were not found (S24).
- The nearest published trial is of a serum (left on all night), not a mascara: 30 women, no comparison group, run by the maker's staff; lashes +8.3% longer at 12 weeks (S18).
- Grande's own claims rest on "a consumer study with 31 subjects" (what people said, not measurements): "97% saw longer looking lashes" S6.
- Plain conclusion: a peptide in mascara is a "nice extra". There is no good evidence that it makes lashes grow. It may help lashes feel softer, like a hair conditioner does.

2.4 The claims Luxe makes (as written)

S1 (US product page), S2 (advertorial, "Last Updated August 26, 2026"), S3 (images).

Claim (quoted)	What it would mean	Note
"Built For Sensitive Eyes & Fine Lashes Over 50"	Aimed at women 50+	Positioning
"Fuller, longer-looking lashes — even on the shortest, finest lashes"	Instant cosmetic effect	Visible straight away
"Zero clumps. Zero flaking."	—	Visible in a day's wear
"So lightweight you forget you're wearing it"	—	Opinion

Claim (quoted)	What it would mean	Note
"Hypoallergenic & gentle enough for the most sensitive eyes"	—	"Hypoallergenic" has no legal meaning (S10)
"Heals your lashes while you wear it"; "Fast Growth"; "Lasting natural growth"	Changes lashes	Drug-type claims (see 11)
"Stays all day. Morning to night."	—	Visible in a day's wear
"water-based and pH balanced"	Gentle base	Plausible; unverifiable without a list
"Water Resistant" badge and "Waterproof (showers, pools, workouts)" and "No waterproof formulas... Warm water dissolves it cleanly"	Contradiction	The page says both (see 1.5)
"safe for contact lens wearers"	—	not checked
"conditioning peptides that hydrate and strengthen... over four to six weeks, visibly healthier"	Slow care effect	No peptide named; for peptide evidence see 2.3B
"Korean Lash-Casting... wraps each one in a light, flexible cast"	Tubing-type film	Reads as tubing
"formulated in Korea, tested by a Korean laboratory, and approved by Korean dermatologists"	—	not checked
"In clinical testing, 100% of women said zero stinging"; "98%... zero flaking"; image: "97% agreed... *peer-reviewed study (2,844 women, ages 35–62, NY)"	—	not checked
"At least 3X longer lashes" (image)	—	not checked
"Lash Extension Friendly" (Amazon title)	No oil that loosens glue	Plausible for a water-based formula
"100% Natural", "Cruelty-Free", 60-day money-back guarantee	—	not checked

3. How to use it, step by step (and how to take it off)

Luxe's own instructions are only "2 coats. That's all it took" and "Warm water. That's it." S1. Below is the full method, built from makeup artists, eye doctors and the tubing brands. Where advice differs, both sides are shown.

3.1 What you need

Item	Why	Must-have?
The mascara	—	Yes

Item	Why	Must-have?
A mirror you can put below your face, ideally a magnifying one (5x–10x)	Looking down stops you hitting the lid; magnification helps tired eyes	Strongly advised over 50
Good light from the front (a window)	Shadows hide clumps	Yes
Cotton buds (Q-tips)	Fixing smudges	Yes
Eyelash curler (optional)	Lifts straight lashes	Optional
Clean spoolie or lash comb (optional)	Separating clumps	Optional
Eyeshadow primer or loose powder (optional)	Stops oily or hooded lids smudging mascara	Optional, useful for hooded lids

3.2 Step by step: applying it

1. Start with clean, dry, cream-free lashes.
    - Wash your face. Keep eye cream below the eye and away from the lashes, and let it sink in.
    - Why: oil or cream on lashes breaks mascara down and causes clumps and smudging. Nina Ubhi: "if you have like skin care left over on your lashes... it's actually oil, right? So, it's moisture and it's going to end up causing your mascara to slide off, flake, or break down" Y7.
    - Dermatologist Dr Dray: wash lids before putting on new eye makeup, because "pollen dirt pollutants" settle there Y12.
2. (Hooded or oily lids) Prime or powder the lid.
    - Put a tiny amount of eyeshadow primer on the lid, "especially right there, that's exactly where your lashes are going to touch", and wait about 30 seconds Y9.
    - Or dust loose powder there. Commenter: "The key for preventing smudging (for me anyway) is to make sure the eye area is powdered" (@Pamela-B, Y9 comments).
3. (Optional) Curl your lashes, BEFORE mascara.
    - Why before: "curl your lashes gently before the mascara goes on, never after it dries because clamping a curler onto a coated lash is how brittle lashes break" Y2.
    - How (classic): open the curler, slide it as close to the root as is comfortable without pinching skin, squeeze gently, then move out a little and squeeze again, then once more near the middle, so the lash curves like a C, not a sharp "check mark" Y3, Y9.
    - How (tips-first, from makeup artist Erin Parsons via Michelle Spieler): curl the tips first, then the middle, then the base Y3.
    - Pinching means the curler's curve doesn't match your eye; try another shape: "if you're constantly giving a little [flinch]... you don't have the right curve" Y9.
    - Heated curler alternative: used after mascara, held on the lashes; no pinching (makeup artist Aran P, Y18).
    - Note the warnings: Dr Dray says curlers often contain nickel (a common allergy) and can break lashes; clean them with an alcohol pad Y12. A study of 36 women found curler use did not significantly change lash structure S14.

4. Take the wand out the right way. Do NOT pump it.
    - Twist and pull out slowly. Wipe the extra off on the tube's neck, not on a tissue (saves product) Y18.
    - "Don't pump it… rummage it around on the inside" Y9. Pumping "pushes air in there into the barrel and it dries out the mascara so you're going to get clumps" Y18. Thrive: "avoid pumping the wand in and out of the tube" S7.
5. Position: chin up, eyes down.
    - Put the mirror below you and look down into it. "when you're looking down you're less likely to get it on your lids" Y9. "tilt my head down so I'm looking up my nose" Y18.
6. First coat, upper lashes: wiggle at the root, then pull through.
    - Put the brush at the very base of the lashes, wiggle side to side a little, then sweep up and out to the tips. Dominique Sachse: "Kind of the little wiggle. Little wiggle and then pull. And I feel like it just deposits a little bit more of the product at the base" Y6.
    - Thrive: "Beginning at the base of your lashes, gently guide the wand from root to tip" S7.
    - Use the tip of the wand held upright for the tiny inner- and outer-corner lashes Y10, Y6.
    - A salon trick: brush the tips first with the wand tip, then do the root-to-tip pass, "you can never get the tips as long when you skip this step" (@DreamJeanneee1111, 56 likes, Y17 comments).
7. Second coat: timing depends on the formula.
    - Tubing: add the second coat while the first is still wet. Thrive: "Layer additional coats while lashes are still wet"; Tarte (per Dominique): "quickly apply the second coat before the first coat dries" S7, Y6. A Thrive fan: "If it gets dry and then you add a coat it is more prone to clumping" (@CarolZone8A).
    - Some tubing formulas are meant as one coat: makeup artist: "they are one coat only… anytime someone has gone in with the second or third coat they'll say oh it's really chunky" Y3. Blinc's newer formula says you can build Y10.
    - Regular: let it sit a few seconds, but not dry. Nina Ubhi: "Just let it sit a few seconds before you go in with the second coat… not even semi-dry" Y7. Mindful Midlife: "don't ever let one coat completely dry" Y9.
    - Luxe says "2 coats". Do the second coat within a minute, as for tubing, until you know how it behaves.
8. One eye at a time. "For optimal performance, we recommend focusing on one eye at a time" S7.
9. Lower lashes: go light, or skip.
    - Film and TV makeup artists won't put mascara on women's lower lashes, as it can "cast shadows and can end up making you look more hollowed out", especially over 40 Y3.
    - "A light hand up top, almost nothing on the bottom" Y2.
    - If you do them: wait until the top is dry, look up a little, and dab or use the wand upright (vertical) Y9, Y18; "I use the mascara brush pointed up and down rather than sideways on bottom lashes" (@LisaIsHappyToBeSane, 119 likes).
    - Tissue trick: hold a tissue under the lower lashes while doing the top (@granjmy, 82 likes).

    - Some use a tubing mascara only on the lower lashes because it won't smear: "works great on the lower lashes as it doesn't smear, cause raccoon eyes, or fallout" (fallout = bits dropping off) (@hiannahgus574, 45 likes, Y17c).
10. Fix mistakes the safe way.
    - Let a smudge on the lid dry, then flick it off with a dry cotton bud.
    - Comb clumps with a clean spoolie or lash comb. Never a pin or safety pin: Dr Dray, "you could inadvertently stab your eye" Y12. (Some viral hacks use tweezers coated in mascara for lower lashes, Y17; for shaky hands or poor sight, skip it.)
11. Never apply in a moving car or bus. FDA: a bump can scratch the eye with the wand, and "Even a slight scratch can result in a serious infection" S9.

3.3 Step by step: taking it off

Tubing (which is how Luxe describes itself)

1. Contact lens wearers: take lenses out first ("Take lenses out before removing makeup") S23.
2. Soak a cotton pad or washcloth in warm (not hot) water and hold it on closed eyes for about 30 seconds S7.
3. Gently press and slide downward along the lashes with the pad or fingertips. The little tubes slide off. Thrive: "slowly move in downward swiping motions" S7.
4. Rinse the sink: "it leaves a mess in the sink... I'd rather have a mess in my sink than a mess all over my eyes" Y3.
5. Then cleanse the face as normal.

Warnings from users:

- Use warm, not cold: "sometimes i'm too lazy to use hot water so i'll use cold water and it pulls some of my eyelashes out" (@Madilyn-sh5pd, Y21 comments).
- It doesn't always "noodle off" neatly: Dominique Sachse wiggled her lashes with dry fingers and got nothing; at the sink it took "face soap as well as a oil-free eye makeup remover" to get Tarte's tubing off Y6.
- In a chemist's test, one product sold as tubing just turned to "mush" in water and smudged, with no tubes Y8.

Regular (washable) mascara

- Cleansing oil or balm first, then a gentle cleanser. Dr Dray: "use an oil cleanser… the oil will just dissolve that makeup… and it'll slide right off" then follow with a gentle cleanser; ophthalmologists often suggest baby shampoo for the lid edge Y13.
- Micellar water on a pad works too; ophthalmologist Dr Rupa Wong warns some micellar waters contain alcohol and that she once had "a horrible allergic dermatitis reaction" to one Y16.
- Use the ring finger and little circles; finish with a cotton bud along the lid edge to catch bits that could fall into the eye Y16, Y13.

Waterproof mascara

- Needs an oil or bi-phase remover. Hold a soaked pad on the closed eye for 10–20 seconds, then wipe down; never scrub Y14; L'Oréal advice for its mascara, S8.
- Ophthalmologist: waterproof "usually requires a biphasic makeup remover and… a lot more [rubbing]… that can cause lash loss, it can cause wrinkles" Y14.

For everyone

- Take it off every night. Dr Dray describes a published case of a woman who slept in mascara for about 25 years until bits of it were "embedded into the eyelid", causing painful bumps Y12, Y13.
- Don't use face scrubs or acne washes (benzoyl peroxide, salicylic or glycolic acid) around the eyes Y13.

3.4 Common beginner mistakes

Mistake	Why it's a problem	Fix	Source
Pumping the wand	Pushes air in, dries the tube, causes clumps	Twist and swirl	Y9, Y18, S7
Too much on the brush	Clumps, spider lashes	Wipe on the tube neck	Y7, Y18
Eye cream or oil on the lashes	Mascara slides, smudges, clumps	Keep creams below the eye; clean lashes	Y7
Looking straight ahead into the mirror	Dots on the lid	Mirror low, look down	Y9, Y18
Curling after mascara	Breaks coated lashes	Curl first (or heated curler after)	Y2
Waiting too long between coats (tubing)	Clumps, chunks	Second coat while wet	S7, Y3
Too many coats	Heavy, droops, "Tammy Faye" (far too much mascara; see glossary)	One or two coats	Y3, Y6
Heavy lower lashes	Shadows, "Baby Jane" (over-made-up; see glossary), smudges	Little or none	Y2, Y3
Cold water on tubing	Pulls lashes	Warm water and patience	Y21 comments
Scrubbing waterproof off	Lash loss, irritation	Oil/bi-phase, soak, press	Y14, Y13
Keeping a tube for a year	Bacteria, dried clumpy formula	Replace every 2–4 months	S9
Adding water or spit to a dry tube	Contamination	Throw it out	S9 (via S5)
Sharing mascara or using shop testers	Germs	Never share	S9

3.5 How long before you see anything

Effect	When	Source
Darker, longer-looking, separated lashes	Immediately, with the first coat	how all mascara works
How well it lasts (smudging, flaking)	Judge at the end of a full day	Dominique tested each "at the end of the day", Y6
Easy removal	That night
Brand's "visibly healthier" bare lashes	Brand says 4–6 weeks	S1; no evidence; a lash's whole growing phase is 4–10 weeks (S13), so any real change would take months, not weeks
How a tube ages	Some users see changes at 45 days to "a couple of months"	"until about the 45 day mark and it just seems to change. It clumps and transfers" (@leonnahofer9138); "after a couple of months it dries" (@unik428)

4. Where it fits in a routine

4.1 The order of steps

Morning (makeup)

1. Cleanse.
2. Skincare: moisturiser; eye cream under the eye, not on the lashes.
3. Sunscreen.
4. Contact lenses in (before makeup) S23.
5. Face makeup: foundation (skin-coloured liquid that evens out the skin) or tinted moisturiser (a lighter, moisturising version), then concealer (thicker cream to hide dark circles).
6. Eyes: lid primer (a thin base cream) or loose powder (hooded lids) → eyeshadow (colour on the lid; optional) → eyeliner (a line drawn along the lashes; optional; on the skin, not the waterline) → brows (filling in the eyebrows).
7. Curl lashes (optional).
8. Mascara: the last eye step. Luxe goes here.
9. Blush (colour on the cheeks), lips.

Mascara usually goes last on the eyes so eyeshadow dust doesn't land on wet lashes and so you can clean the lid up after.

Night

1. Contact lenses out first S23.
2. Remove the mascara (warm water for tubing; oil for regular/waterproof).

3. Cleanse the face.
4. Skincare.
5. Lash serum, last, on a clean, dry upper lash line (e.g. the Luxe Eyelash Serum, pack 4).

A creator (Cassi, Y20) describes this exact split: "I use a conditioning treatment in the morning and I use a lash serum at night" (Y20).

4.2 What it goes with, and what not to mix

Combination	Good or bad	Why
Lash curler before	Good	Lift, then lock it with mascara
Eyeshadow primer or powder on the lid	Good	Stops lid oil breaking mascara down Y9
Lash serum at night	Good	Different jobs; never at the same time
Brown liner instead of black	Good for mature eyes	Softer; "I tend to like a dark chocolate compared to a black" Y19
Rich eye cream or eye oil on or near lashes before mascara	Bad	Breaks mascara down; smudging Y7
Castor oil on lashes in the morning	Bad	Castor oil is for night only: "you don't want to do that right before you put on your makeup because it is kind of thick" Y5
A conditioning lash treatment then mascara on top	Often bad	Makes regular mascara clumpy; "Usually your choices are just don't wear mascara or don't use your conditioning treatment" Y20; that is the problem Luxe claims to solve
Tubing mascara over waterproof, or a "refresher" over tubing	Bad	MAC's refresher "is not meant to go over waterproof... and it's not meant to go over tubing" Y3
Regular mascara over a tubing base for an event	Works for some	"For an event I will apply a normal mascara over and/or under it for more oomph" (@lorainemcgillivray77, Y9 comments)
Lash extensions	Only with an oil-free formula	Oil loosens glue Y10; Luxe says "Lash Extension Friendly"
Waterproof liner in the waterline	Avoid	Blocks oil glands Y14
Fibre mascara with contact lenses	Avoid	Fibres get under lenses Y2; snippet in S5
Prescription eye drops	Watch out	Drops and tears can break tubing: "when the tubing mascaras broke up" (@bethirwin7445)

4.3 Example routines

A. The 3-minute "look awake" routine (any age)

1. Clean, dry lashes.
2. One coat of mascara on the upper lashes, root to tip.
3. Nothing on the lower lashes.
4. Night: warm water, then face wash.

B. A woman over 60 with hooded, sensitive eyes and reading glasses

1. Morning: moisturiser; eye cream only under the eye; let it absorb.
2. A tiny amount of eyeshadow primer (a thin base cream for the lid) or a dusting of loose powder over the whole lid, so the lid's oil doesn't break the mascara down.
3. Optional: a soft brown eyeliner pencil smudged close to the upper lashes (skin side, not the waterline, the wet inner rim).
4. Optional: curl gently (heated curler if the metal one pinches).
5. Magnifying mirror placed low; chin up, eyes looking down.
6. Mascara (tubing or water-based, fragrance-free): one coat on the upper lashes, wiggle at the root; tip of the wand for corners. Second coat straight away only if needed.
7. Skip the lower lashes, or one light dab at the outer third.
8. Cotton bud on hand for touch-ups.
9. Night: lenses out (if worn); warm-water soak 30 seconds; slide off; gentle cleanser; lash serum on a dry lash line if used.
10. Replace the mascara every 3 months (write the date on the tube).

Sources for B: Y2, Y3, Y9, Y18, Y19, S9, S23; the combination is my reading.

C. Contact-lens wearer

1. Hands washed; lenses in first.
2. Water-based or tubing mascara; no fibres; tips and top lashes only.
3. Never liner inside the lash line ("Don't apply eyeliner to the inner edge of the lid") S23.
4. Night: lenses out first, then remove mascara S23.

D. A wedding, a funeral, a swim

- Waterproof for one day is fine: "for occasional use of course waterproof mascara and eyeliner are fine" Y14. A makeup artist keeps waterproof "for brides or mother of the brides anyone who thinks they're going to get emotional" Y3.
- Remove carefully with an oil remover that night.

E. Dry-eye routine (from an ophthalmologist)

- Warm compress on closed eyes for 10–15 minutes (a sock filled with rice, warmed 30 seconds) to open the oil glands; lid wipes (ready-soaked pads for cleaning the lid edge); preservative-free artificial tears (eye drops that copy natural tears). Add makeup back slowly, one product at a time Y15.

5. Who it's for and who it isn't

5.1 By age

Age	Typical lashes and lids	What helps	Fit with Luxe's pitch
Under 20	not found: no source in this pack covers teenagers' lashes or mascara needs	—	Not the target
20s–30s	Longest, thickest lashes (7.98 mm average at 22–29) S12; firm lids	Anything; volume formulas	Not the target
40s	Lids start to hood; richer eye creams; more smudging Y7	Smudge-resistant, tubing	Partly
50s	Lashes ~20% shorter and thinner S12; tear film (the thin tear layer over the eye) less stable; menopause (periods stop, hormones drop)	Lightweight, tubing, easy removal, separation	Main target
60s–70s+	Hooded lids, crepey skin, poorer near sight, cataract surgery, dry eyes, eye drops; some give up mascara	Precision brush, magnifying mirror, gentle removal, maybe brown-black; less on lower lashes	Main target; but watery eyes and drops can defeat tubing

5.2 By lash type

Lashes	Need	Luxe fit
Short, sparse, fine	Length and separation without weight	Pitched for this ("grips short, fine lashes")
Straight / downward	Curl first; lifting brush or formula	Brand claims "Straight lashes get lift"; untested
Light / blonde	Colour matters most; black may look harsh	Black only on the shop page (two reviews on Luxe's page mention a brown / black-brown, #37, #68)
Thick, long	Volume formulas	Not the target
Lash extensions	Oil-free	Says "Lash Extension Friendly"
Brittle	Gentle removal more than "conditioning"	Warm-water removal (if true) is the real help

5.3 By eye type

Eyes	Issue	What helps	Luxe fit
Hooded	Lashes touch the lid → transfer	Tubing or waterproof; primer; curl	Fits if it really is tubing

Eyes	Issue	What helps	Luxe fit
Oily lids	Oil breaks wax mascara	Tubing (water-soluble polymers resist oil) Y8	Fits if tubing
Watery	Warm tears dissolve tubing	Waterproof or regular	Possibly poor fit
Dry eye / eye drops	Drops break tubing; waterproof clogs glands	Gentle, fragrance-free, removed nightly	Uncertain
Sensitive / allergic	Fragrance, preservatives, nickel, wax	Short, fragrance-free list you can check	Can't be checked: no list
Contact lenses	Flakes and fibres under lenses	Water-based, no fibres	Claims "safe for contact lens wearers"; untested
Deep-set (eyes that sit further back under the brow bone)	Hard to reach	Slim brush	Plausible
After eye surgery	Infection risk	Wait for the surgeon's OK; new tube	Same as any mascara

5.4 By budget

Budget	Options	Where Luxe sits
Under $10	Essence Lash Princess $4.97, Maybelline Sky High $10.82 (Amazon prices from asinsight, a site that estimates Amazon prices and sales; see 7.1)	—
$10–20	L'Oréal Lash Paradise $13.99, Telescopic $11.97	Luxe on Amazon UK £14.99
$20–30	Thrive $26, Tarte $28, Grande $25, Ilia ~$29, PrimeLash $22.40–28	Luxe "buy 1 get 1" works out at about $20 a tube
$30+	Lancôme Lash Idôle $30 (asinsight) / $40–45 (Face Value), Dior $33–44	Luxe $39.95 single on its own site

Sources: S5 (asinsight and brand pages, Jun–Aug 2026), Y1, Y2, Y6. Price-conscious viewers: "I don't want to spend over $25 for mascara especially when we need to replace them every 3 months" (@vanessawilen2417, 190 likes).

5.5 What changes after 50 and 60, and why

1. Fewer, shorter, finer lashes. Measured: 20% shorter, thinner S12. Why: lashes grow for only 4–10 weeks S13; with age, follicles may spend longer resting (expert view, Y2). Result: mascara has less to grip; heavy formulas drag them down.
2. Lids hood. Extra skin folds over; lashes touch it Y7. Result: transfer to the lid, "polka dots" on the brow bone (the ridge under the eyebrow) Y3.

3. Under-eye skin thins and creases. Result: flakes and smudges sit in lines and look like dark circles. "tiny black confetti sits in your fine lines and dark circles" S2; "Heavy, dry mascara emphasizes dark circles and every fine line" (makeup artist Caroline Hernandez, quoted in Y2).
4. More eye cream and richer skincare. Result: more grease near lashes → smudging Y7.
5. Tear film changes; dry eye and eye drops. Oil glands work less well; eyes sting and water Y2, Y15. Meibomian gland problems are linked to preservatives, surfactants and essential oils near the eye in a 2026 review S17.
6. Allergies can start late. "you can develop an allergic reaction to a product even if you've used that product one, ten or even a thousand times before" (Dr Rupa, Y15). Eyelids are a top site for cosmetic allergy S16.
7. Eyesight. Hard to see lashes; cataract surgery; shaky hands Y5 comments.
8. Less curl. "As I got older I found that curling didn't work any longer" (@elenapizzarello9344).
9. Style shift. Many want "less is more", softer black or brown-black: "a softer brown-black instead of a harsh jet black on fair or cool skin" Y2. Some want to avoid looking "clownish" or "Baby Jane" S5.

6. Every problem the viewer has, one by one

For each: what it is, why it happens, how it feels (real quotes), what people tried and why it failed, and how Luxe helps or doesn't. Quotes are from YouTube comments pulled with NexLev (S5 raw file, plus pulls on 2026-10-31 noted as Y9c, Y17c, Y21c, now saved in. Numbers like #92 are reviews in the reviews half of this pack, which gives each one's source, date and stars or likes.

Problem 1: "My lashes have disappeared" (short, sparse, light)

- What: Lashes too short or few to show; the eye looks bare and tired.
- Why: Lashes ~20% shorter and thinner after 50 S12; finer hairs reflect less.
- How it feels: "I have blonde thin and straight lashes that are invisible without mascara" (@nedamm5677, 18 likes). "I didn't feel pulled together like I once did" (@elenapizzarello9344). Luxe's own copy plays on it: "This isn't another mascara that looks amazing on a 25-year-old model and invisible on you" S1.
- Tried and failed: Volume mascaras that clump on sparse lashes; extensions (cost, damage; one commenter got them after mascara stopped working); false lashes; serums with side-effect fears (pack 4).
- Luxe: Its pitch fits exactly (slim "precision" wand, "featherlight"). Any mascara darkens and lengthens instantly; whether Luxe's brush catches tiny corner lashes better than a $5–11 slim brush (Essence, Sky High) is untested. It will not regrow lashes.

Problem 2: Smudging, transfer and "raccoon eyes"

- What: Black marks under the eye or on the lid by midday.
- Why: Lid oil, eye cream, tears, heat and hooded skin soften wax mascaras; lashes droop and touch the skin Y7, Y3, Y8.
- How it feels: "Every single mascara I've tried over the last 30 years plus ends up transferring onto the foundation under my eyes or just creating a very dark shadow underneath …" (@teddyroon, age 66, 0 likes). "Raccoon eyes have been the bane of my existence because I have significant chronic dry eye and have to use eye drops throughout the day" (@donkiml5805). "I've been struggling with mascara ending up under my eyes for YEARS" (@danikafarnsworth5590).
- Tried and failed: Waterproof (hard removal; "even waterproof mascara would end up looking like raccoon eyes", @NIKKIRHODES1212); expensive brands ("YSL… it smudge!", @mikaelamichael7456); skipping lower lashes.
- Luxe: If it is a true tubing formula, this is its strongest benefit: tubes "do not smudge from anything from oil, sweat, tears, or even eye cream" (Y4). But the page also says "Waterproof".

Problem 3: Flakes in fine lines

- What: Dry crumbs falling under the eyes.
- Why: Wax-and-pigment coats dry stiff and crack; old tubes dry out.
- How it feels: "start to crumble from your eyes around lunch time" (@unik428). "Halfway through the day, flaking" (reviewer quoted in Y1).
- Tried and failed: Prestige volume mascaras; fresh tubes that go off after weeks.
- Luxe: Claims "zero flaking"; tubing generally flakes less ("tubing mascara is incapable of flaking", makeup artist Y3; though one Thrive user said "after few weeks of using it, it would start to flake", @VictoriaBC610). Untested for Luxe.

Problem 4: Hard removal that pulls lashes out

- What: Rubbing and scrubbing at night; lashes on the cotton pad.
- Why: Waterproof and long-wear formulas need oil and friction; rubbing breaks and pulls lashes Y14, S13.
- How it feels: "If i have to scrub my eyes to get it off that is a deal breaker" (@dfollmer1428). "whenever I take off waterproof mascara it always rips out my lashes and takes so long" (@josiejohnson_28). "how easily they remove is just as important to me as how they perform" (@Keeper_of_the_Hearth). Luxe: "Every lash left on a cotton pad feels personal when you already have fewer to spare" S2.
- Tried and failed: Waterproof + bi-phase remover; wipes (Dr Dray: wipes "require more rubbing" and cause "eyelash breakage", Y13).
- Luxe: "Warm water dissolves it cleanly" is the centre of the pitch. If true, it helps. Remember tubing can still need patience and warm water: Dominique needed soap and remover to get Tarte's tubing off (Y6), and cold water can pull lashes (Y21c).

Problem 5: Sensitive, stinging, itchy, watering eyes

- What: Eyes burn, water or itch, lids go red after mascara.
- Why: Allergy or irritation to fragrance, preservatives, wax, nickel, alcohol; dry eye; blocked oil glands Y15, Y12, S16, S17.
- How it feels: "Essence looked great but caused an itching and burning every time I wore it" (@JoyWinters-t4h). "some black mascaras just make my eyes water and hurt" (@AudriannaB-World-Peace). Molly Burke, quoted by Dr Rupa: "mascaras, makeup removers, eye creams i burn my eyes make my eyes water" (Y15).
- Tried and failed: "Hypoallergenic" products (term has no legal meaning, S10); "sensitive skin" micellar water that still caused a reaction (Y15, Y16).
- Luxe: Claims hypoallergenic, pH balanced, water-based. But with no ingredient list, someone with a known allergy cannot check it. Patch test and stop if it stings.

Problem 6: Watery eyes and eye drops break the mascara

- What: Tears and drops make mascara run, even tubing.
- Why:
  - Tubing films are made of water-loving plastics: a chemist calls the main one "the water soluble polymer that makes tubing mascaras tube" Y8. Warm water is exactly what brands tell you to use to take them off S7.
  - Tears are warm water, and eye drops are watery too. So a watery eye slowly does to the mascara what the warm cloth does at night.
  - Older eyes water more, because the tear film (the thin tear layer over the eye) becomes less stable: "mature eyes water more" Y2; Dr Rupa, Y15.
  - Heat, humidity and sweat add more warm water.
- How it feels: "Tears are warm so they cause the mascara to smear, just as warm water does" (@JoyWinters-t4h). "Victoria Beckham's Vast Lash… holds up to the multiple medicated eye drops I have to use when the tubing mascaras broke up" (@bethirwin7445). "Tubing mascaras smudge and run down my face from May-December in the heat and humidity of Florida" (@Corrine919).
- What they tried and why it failed:
  - Tubing mascara: it broke up under eye drops, so one woman moved to another mascara: "Victoria Beckham's Vast Lash… holds up to the multiple medicated eye drops I have to use when the tubing mascaras broke up" (@bethirwin7445, 3 likes, Y4 comments, review #254). Sky Tubes: "do not wear it when you think you might cry, ot runs everywhere, and starts coming off in cubes" (#183).
  - Waterproof: it resists tears better, but even that failed in heat: "working in the salon in Georgia was like working in a saunafied sweat shop and even waterproof mascara would end up looking like raccoon eyes" (@NIKKIRHODES1212, review #265). And waterproof is harsh to take off: "found the irritation from removing it everyday caused issues with my rosacea at my eyes" (@lorainemcgillivray77, 2 likes, Y9c).
  - Skipping the lower lashes: "I've learned with using eye drops, It's better to not use mascara on the lower eyelashes or only in the outer corners" (@donkiml5805, review #257). It helps, but the top lashes still run.

- Luxe: If it is warm-water tubing, this is its weak spot. One review on Luxe's own page says the opposite: "i have very watery eyes… it stays on perfectly no matter how much my eyes water" (#41); remember that 78 of the 80 Luxe reviews sit on the waterproof listing.

Problem 7: Contact lenses

- What: Bits of mascara or fibres get under lenses; lenses cloud.
- Why: Mascara sticks to lenses: non-waterproof mascara left 0.9–7.1% coverage on silicone hydrogel lenses (a common kind of soft contact lens) after an hour's soak in a lab, depending on lens material S15. Flakes or fibres that fall into the eye can also get caught under a lens (fibres: Y2).
- How it feels: "I wore contacts for over 50 years" and preferred no mascara (Rebecca, 70, Y5). Luxe ad persona: "My eyes water at everything and I wear contacts, so most mascaras are a nightmare" S2 (brand copy, not a verified customer).
- What they tried and why it failed:
  - Fibre mascaras: the fibres shed into the eye (Y2), so lens wearers are told to avoid them (S23; snippet in S5).
  - Waterproof: a contact-lens shop's advice page says to avoid waterproof mascara with lenses (feelgoodcontacts.com, search snippet in, and it needs oily removers and rubbing (Y14).
  - A "tubing" mascara that wasn't: a long-time Thrive user switched to PrimeLash, which claimed warm-water removal but "required an oil based makeup remover to come off cleanly at night" (#82). She went back to Thrive.
  - A Luxe page review says it "doesnt flake off into my contacts" (#68, brand's own site).
- Luxe: Claims "safe for contact lens wearers"; no lens test named. Rivals publish one (Thrive: "Dermatologist + ophthalmologist tested… safe for contact lens wearers", S7). Lens rules apply regardless (3.3, 4.3C).

Problem 8: Straight lashes that won't curl or hold a curl; curlers that pinch

- What: Lashes point straight out or down; curl drops in an hour.
- Why: Natural shape; heavy wet formulas weigh lashes down; regular mascara relaxes curl.
- How it feels: "They are short and cannot hold a curl at all" (@michelleyork7647). "There are plenty of us out here… who keep getting pinched by the curlers or who are unable to get the curlers in the right position to work. I'm looking for a good self curling mascara" (@user-zk8ed4kd2b). "Anything not waterproof will wilt your freshly curled lashes quicker than you can say 'Flop'" (@DSmith-ix1xf).
- Tried and failed: Cheap curlers ("cheap ones have the potential of pulling your eyelashes out", Y9); waterproof just for curl.
- Luxe: Claims "lifts without weighing down"; brand's own line "Curlers lose their grip after 20 minutes" S1. Untested. Tubing films can hold curl (Thrive says "lifts and curls"), but evidence for Luxe is none.

Problem 9: Clumps and "spider legs"

- What: Lashes stick together in thick spikes.
- Why: Too much on the brush; thick formula; dried tube; second coat on a dry first coat.
- Why (more): tubing formulas set fast, so a second coat on a dry first coat sticks lashes together: "If it gets dry and then you add a coat it is more prone to clumping" (@CarolZone8A, 12 likes, #252). A tube that has started to dry out gives thicker, lumpier formula (#109; see Problem 11).
- How it feels: "I bought the Hourglass on your recommendation and it is sooo clumpy!! …" (@Rachierooh, 2 likes). "I cannot apply 2 coats due to clumping but even one coat clumps" (PrimeLash reviewer, snippet, S5).
- What they tried and why it failed:
  - Waiting between eyes, or not: "I wait a minute then go to the other eye and I get clumps that I have to comb out. Which ends up removing a lot of the product. I've tried less time and more time between eyes and get the same results" (#115, Thrive, age 55–64).
  - Wiping the brush first: "Thrive left globs of mascara on my lashes in spite of skimming brush prior to application" (@Marlenabkk, 4 likes, #239).
  - Paying more: "Thought something that cost more than double my old standby did must be totally awesome… the brush leaves clumps" (#116, Thrive, 65+).
  - A new tube: "The first application from the brand new tube was wonderful… But after the initial use, the mascara goes on clumpy" (#109).
- Luxe: Claims "Zero clumps"; the one independent short says "Absolutely zero clumps" after ¾ of a coat (Y20). Untested beyond that.

Problem 10: Can't see to apply; hooded lids get covered; shaky hands

- What: Mascara on the lid, the brow bone, the nose.
- Why:
  - Near sight fades with age, so close-up work like lashes gets blurry without glasses, and glasses get in the way of the wand. Cataracts make it worse (@adriennekushner1968, below).
  - Hooding: the extra lid skin hangs down so "things are touching now" (Nina Ubhi, Y7), and the lashes may sit hidden under the fold.
  - Shaky or stiff hands (tremor, arthritis) make a thick, bushy brush hard to control (#35, #57, #66).
- How it feels: "it made my hooded eyes look smaller and I really couldn't see my eyelashes anymore to apply it and got more on my eyelids than lashes" (@Kim-ek7xy, almost 70). "I even try to put tape on my eyelids before applying mascara" (@HurshRoad, Y9c). "my lashline tucks up behind that immobile skin flap 'hood' lol" (@errrkt, Y9c).
- What they tried and why it failed:
  - Tape on the lid: "I even try to put tape on my eyelids before applying mascara" (@HurshRoad, 0 likes, Y9c); in the same comment she says "I struggle so much with mascara".

    - Carrying on without seeing: "I really couldn't see my eyelashes anymore to apply it and got more on my eyelids than lashes" (@Kim-ek7xy, 30 likes, #273), so she stopped wearing mascara.
    - Big, bushy brushes: "it doesnt get mess on my eyelids like those big bushy brushes do" (#66, Luxe page).
    - What worked for one: "When I had my cataract surgery, I bought a 10X mirror so I could see up close. It is a game changer for me" (@adriennekushner1968, 42 likes, #276).
- Fixes: Low magnifying mirror, look down (Y9, Y18); primer (Y9); slim brush (Y1: Rare Beauty's tip for lower lashes).
- Luxe: A slim wand helps; the technique matters more than the brand.

Problem 11: Tubes that dry out or "go off"; the cost of replacing

- What: A tube changes after 6–8 weeks: clumps, flakes, transfer.
- Why:
    - Pumping the wand pushes air into the tube and "dries out the mascara" (Y18).
    - The water or solvent slowly evaporates each time the tube is opened, so the formula thickens.
    - Germs from the eye ride back into the tube on the wand; the FDA says to throw mascara out 2–4 months after buying it (S9).
- How it feels: "until about the 45 day mark and it just seems to change" (@leonnahofer9138). "I dread to think how much money I have spent trying to find the one" (@lornacartwright1341).
- What they tried and why it failed:
    - Taking great care: "I am very careful to close the tube completely… It just didn't last longer than one use" (#109).
    - Switching to a pricier "long-wear" tubing: it still went off: "Tartalette is good in the beginning, but after a couple of months it dries or something" (@unik428, 11 likes, #240); Thrive "after few weeks of using it, it would start to flake" (@VictoriaBC610, 2 likes, #255).
    - Buying cheap so it hurts less: "if it dries up in 2 months, at least I didn't spend over $20" (@vanessawilen2417, 190 likes, #222).
    - What helped one: "I don't pump air into the tube and I make sure I seal it up tight… The tube lasts quite some time" (@MmeO, age 67, 11 likes, #237).
- Luxe: Brand page gives no shelf life. At $39.95 single, a 3-monthly replacement is pricey; the 2-for-1 or Amazon price makes more sense.

Problem 12: Too harsh; wants brown

- What: Jet black looks stark on fair, older skin.
- Why:
    - With age, skin often gets paler and thinner, hair and brows go grey, and lashes get fewer and finer. A solid black line then stands out much more against everything around it.

    - Makeup artists quoted in Y2 recommend "a softer brown-black instead of a harsh jet black on fair or cool skin".
    - Some lashes do start to grey: "my lashes are graying" (#68, Luxe page), though the review study says lashes grey "only at a very advanced age" (S13).
- How it feels: "My problem is that I want brown mascara, not black. Black simply does not work for me and that is often the only choice there is." (@mlaiuppa, 1 like). "If I use mascara on all my lashes, I get a Bette Davis as Baby Jane look" (@phyllistallent4149, 57 likes; "Baby Jane" = over-made-up, see glossary). "I do not wish to appear clownish" (@lindap.p.1337, age 77, 30 likes).
- What they tried and why it failed:
    - "Brown-black" shades: one woman found them still harsh: the Tarte brown is "a very nice true brown, not the black brown that other brands have offered for years that are harsh" (@susanmcf1, #259).
    - A brown she loved was discontinued: "according to a Blinc CSR the Medium Brown shade has been discontinued... I really miss it!" (#144).
    - Softer colours that went too far: "The color (Elena) is so subtle, you don't see the tint" (#116); "The Mulberry color makes me look like I have Pink-Eye" (#108).
    - Using less: mascara "only on the outer 1/4 to 1/3 of my lashes" (@phyllistallent4149).
- Fixes: Brown-black shades (Thrive's brown-black is "the one older reviewers reach for", Y2); Tarte tubing in brown (Y4); navy (Y18).
- Luxe: Black only on the shop page. Two reviews on Luxe's own page mention a brown / black-brown shade (#37 "i got the brown... not harsh like black can be on older skin"; #68 "this black-brown color is perfect"); the shop lists Black only. So for viewers who want brown, it is not clear Luxe sells one.

Problem 13: Lower lashes smudge or "cast shadows"

- What: Mascara on the bottom row prints onto the skin under the eye, or makes the eye look tired and sunken.
- Why:
    - The lower lashes sit right against the under-eye skin, which is wet with tears, often coated in eye cream, and creased with age. Every blink or smile presses lashes onto it.
    - Dark pigment there reads as a shadow: "Loading the bottom row drops dark pigment right against the under eye, where it deepens shadows" (Y2); film and TV makeup artists avoid it because it can "cast shadows and can end up making you look more hollowed out" (Y3).
    - The lower lashes curve more downward with age (S13), so they touch the skin more.
- How it feels: "This is the mascara for women who gave up on lower lashes years ago" (Y1). "Loading the bottom row drops dark pigment right against the under eye, where it deepens shadows" (Y2).
- What they tried and why it failed:
    - Skipping them completely: "I personally feel not touching them at all gives the eye and unfinished look" (@DianehiltzCanada, 5 likes, Y9c).

    - Eye drops all day: "It's better to not use mascara on the lower eyelashes or only in the outer corners" (@donkiml5805, #257).
    - Not everyone has the problem: "I am in my 60s… I have always applied mascara to the lower lash line with the mascara wand and I have never had issues" (@susanstukins2990, 19 likes, Y17c).
- Fixes: Skip; dab; vertical wand; tissue; a tubing formula on the bottom only (comments in Y17c).
- Luxe: No specific claim beyond "tiny ones in the corners".

Problem 14: Wants lash health without serum side effects

- What: Fear of lash serums (prostaglandins can darken the iris, the coloured ring of the eye) but wanting "healthier" lashes.
- Why:
    - Lashes really do get shorter and thinner with age (S12), and rough removal breaks them (S13, Y14).
    - The serums that work best contain prostaglandins, whose possible side effects include a browner iris that the Latisse label calls "likely to be permanent" (pack 4, its S7) and redness and stinging (Y15). So people look for a gentler "middle path".
- How it feels: "I have light blue eyes and I'm scared to ruin my eye color just for longer lashes" S5 (pack 4 data). "Should we use a lash serum such as Sweed or Grande Lash?" (@carolgarrett5650).
- What they tried and why it failed:
    - A "conditioning" mascara: "Seeing that it functioned as a conditioning product I placed an order… Regrettably used only once and now sits in a throw away box" (#104, Thrive, age 55–64).
    - Beliefs that a mascara grows lashes: "My fav is Rimmel it literally grows your lashes" (@margieshelnutt9006, age 68, 73 likes, #235). No study backs mascara growth (2.3B).
    - Castor oil at night (Y5, Y1): many use it; no good evidence it grows lashes.
    - A serum with a mascara on top worked for one: "I've also been using Lash Boost from Rodan & Fields for 8 months. The combination has totally changed my lashes" (#165). (A serum, not the mascara, is the likely cause.)
- Luxe: "Conditioning peptide" sounds like a gentle middle path. In truth a peptide in mascara has no good evidence for growth (2.3B). Some mascaras do contain a prostaglandin (isopropyl cloprostenate) per an ophthalmologist (Y15); Luxe's list is unknown, so photograph the box.

Problem 15: "I've given up on mascara"

- What: Women who stopped wearing mascara altogether, often after years of trouble.
- Why: it is every problem above added together. The reasons given in the reviews:
    - The mess and the removal: "I am sick of the mess!" (#269); "I don't dread removing markup!!" (#271).

    - Stinging and watering: "My eyes water frequently and itch a lot. Consequently, I couldn't wear mascara" (#92); "I would end up with irritated eyelids. I had quit even bothering …" (#96).
    - Can't see to put it on, hooded lids: "I really couldn't see my eyelashes anymore to apply it" (#273).
    - Lashes too sparse for it to show: "I guess my lashes are just too old" (#83).
    - Infection: "I got an eyelash infection - so no false lashes or mascara allowed" (#277).
- How it feels: "I am 69 and just recently decided to ditch masacra. Its a bit scary but I am sick of the mess!" (@loftonrudolph7586, 57 likes). "Love not using mascara any more… I don't dread removing markup!!" (@rebeccaholley1544, 44 likes). "I don't like how it feels & it's messy to remove… I turned 76" (@patwagner9308). Rebecca, 70: "mascaras are basically putting tar on your lashes" (Y5).
- What they tried and why it failed:
    - Changing brands for years: "I had used the same mascara for probably 40 years and it had started irritating my eyes to the point that I usually just didn't bother to put it on… I have tried others through the years but always went back with my old standby" (#85, Thrive, 65+).
    - Curling harder and switching brands: "As I got older I found that curling didn't work any longer and no matter what brand of mascara I used, nothing helped my lashes" (@elenapizzarello9344, 34 likes, #226); she moved to lash extensions.
    - Two coats and a curler: "After curling, and with two coats, my lashes were still flat and stuck together" (#83).
- The other side: "I will never give up my mascara.EVER!" (@robiness5344, 125 likes, 29 replies). "At 64 years old, it makes me feel pretty." (@jamiebrennan5779, age 64, 76 likes).
- Luxe: Tubing is often the reason women come back: "For a lot of women past 50, this is the reason they start wearing mascara again after quitting in frustration" (Y1); "I never wore mascara because it always smeared. But I recently starred wearing tubing mascara and it makes a huge difference" (@ItzaMuMu). Luxe's whole pitch aims at this group.

7. How this product compares

7.1 The main alternatives, explained simply

Prices are as found on the date and source given; they move. Amazon ratings come from asinsight.com reports, which estimate Amazon sales (month shown) S5.

Product	Type	What it is, plainly	Price (source, date)	What's different from Luxe
Luxe Conditioning Peptide Mascara	Says "lash-casting" (reads as tubing) + peptide	Over-50, sensitive-eye pitch; black only; no ingredient list	$39.95 brand site; £14.99 Amazon UK; US Amazon not found (S1, S4, 2026-10-31)	—
Thrive Causemetics Liquid Lash Extensions	Tubing	The best-known tubing mascara; brown-black option; ophthalmologist-tested; full list published	$26 (S7, 2026-10-31); Amazon 4.4★ (4.1K–4.6K, Jul–Aug 2026)	Published list and lens testing; cheaper single tube; brown-black; "No. 1" for over-50s in two big lists (Y1, Y2)
Tarte Tartelette Tubing (and XL "with Peptide")	Tubing (XL adds peptide)	Popular tubing; also in brown (Y4)	$28 Amazon, 4.4★ (4K), est. 100K units/month (asinsight Jul 2026)	Same idea plus a peptide; brown option; big seller
Clinique Lash Power	Tubing	"true tubing… Fragrance-free. Ophthalmologist tested"	$28–35 (Y1) or about $25 (Y2); sources differ	Fragrance-free and lens-friendly by name; less volume
Blinc Mascara Amplified	Tubing (the original)	Tubing since about 1995; black and dark brown	$26 Walmart (snippet, S5)	Brown; long track record
Maybelline Sky High (washable)	Regular, slim flexible brush, "bamboo… fibers"	Viral drugstore favourite	$10.82, 4.5★ (187.9K) (asinsight Aug 2026)	A quarter of Luxe's site price; huge review base; regular formula
Essence Lash Princess	Regular, fibre brush	The cheapest cult mascara	$4.97, 4.3★ (401.1K)	One-eighth of the price; Dominique: "wore exceptionally well… no flaking, no smudging" (Y6); some get itching (@JoyWinters-t4h)
L'Oréal Lash Paradise (washable)	Regular	Soft wavy brush; "Ophthalmologist-tested… sensitive eyes and contact lens wearers" (S8)	$13.99 (S8)	Cheap, published list; regular formula
Grande GrandeMASCARA	Regular wax + named peptide	"Condition while you coat!"; black, brown, waterproof	$25 (S6)	Names its peptide and list; brown; regular (not tubing)

Product	Type	What it is, plainly	Price (source, date)	What's different from Luxe
PrimeLash "Mascara for Older Women"	Not stated	The other over-50 mascara	$22.40–28, 4.0★ (25.4K–27K) (asinsight Jun–Aug 2026)	Same audience, big review base; some find it clumpy (S5)
Ilia Limitless Lash	Regular, "clean"	Shea and beeswax; ophthalmologist-tested; Leaping Bunny (per Y1)	about $28–30 (Y1, Y2)	"Clean" positioning; published list
Lancôme Lash Idôle	Regular	Lifting cone brush	$30 Amazon (asinsight Jul 2026); $40–45 counter (Y1)	Prestige brush; L'Oréal-owned
Bobbi Brown No Smudge	Waterproof	"like a raincoat for your lashes" (Y4)	not found	For crying/swimming days; hard removal
MAC Magic Extension 5mm	Fibre	Fibres for length	$28 (Y6)	Big length; fibres can shed; not for lenses

7.2 When to pick Luxe, and when something else

Luxe could make sense if:

- You want a tubing-style, warm-water-removal mascara and like the idea of "conditioning" in one tube.
- You buy it at the Amazon price or the 2-for-1 deal, not $39.95 for one.
- You have short, fine lashes, hooded or oily lids, and no known ingredient allergies.

Pick something else if:

- You have known allergies or very reactive eyes → choose a product with a published list you (or your doctor) can check: Clinique Lash Power, Thrive, Lash Paradise.
- You want brown or brown-black → Thrive (brown-black), Tarte (brown), Blinc (dark brown), Grande (brown).
- Your eyes water a lot or you use drops all day → tubing may break down; a waterproof for occasional days, or a regular formula, may last better.
- You're on a tight budget → Essence ($4.97) and Sky High ($10.82) performed as well as a $44 Dior in a week-long test: "It's really hard to tell the difference between the $4 one and the $44 one" (Y6).
- You want proof of eye-doctor testing → Thrive and L'Oréal state it on their own pages (S7, S8).
- You want real lash growth → that's a serum's job, not a mascara's (pack 4).

8. Questions viewers ask, with plain answers

Each question comes from a real comment or search, shown in brackets. Answers are plain summaries of the sources; marks my reading.

1. "What is tubing mascara?" (the top search theme: "tubing mascara what is", S19) — A mascara that dries into tiny flexible sleeves around each lash. It doesn't smudge with oil and slides off with warm water. Y3, S7.
2. "Is Luxe mascara a tubing mascara?" (search "luxe mascara waterproof conditioning peptide mascara", S4) — The brand describes "a light, flexible cast… a soft, flexible tube", which sounds like tubing, but it also says "Waterproof". There's no ingredient list to confirm. A warm-water rinse would show it: a true tubing formula slides off in little tubes.
3. "What's in it?" (Scam Advice video: "check the full ingredient list", S5) — Not published online. Check the box.
4. "Does a peptide mascara grow lashes?" (@carolgarrett5650 on serums; Luxe FAQ "Does it actually help my lashes grow, or is that just marketing?") — No good evidence. Growth claims belong to serums and drugs. S18, S5.
5. "Will it sting my eyes?" (Luxe FAQ; @AudriannaB-World-Peace) — It's sold as hypoallergenic and pH balanced, but "hypoallergenic" has no legal meaning (S10). Patch test; stop if it stings.
6. "Can I wear it with contact lenses?" (Luxe FAQ; Rebecca, Y5) — The brand says yes; no test is published. Put lenses in before, take them out before removing it, avoid fibres. S23.
7. "How do I get tubing mascara off?" (@Madilyn-sh5pd) — Warm water, a 30-second soak, then gentle downward strokes. Not cold water. S7, Y21c.
8. "Why won't it come off in little tubes like on TikTok?" (Dominique, Y6) — Dry fingers aren't enough; it needs warm water. Some products sold as tubing don't really tube (Y8).
9. "Why does my mascara smudge under my eyes?" (@danikafarnsworth5590) — Oil from lids and eye cream, tears, hooded lids and drooping lashes. Prime, keep creams off lashes, try tubing. Y7, Y9.
10. "Is waterproof mascara bad for older eyes?" (@carolegriffith7198: "Waterproof seems to be a problem") — Not dangerous for occasional use, but harder to remove (rubbing, lash loss) and can clog oil glands with daily use. Y14.
11. "Do waterproof mascaras contain forever chemicals?" (Face Value and Glow Audit videos) — A 2021 Notre Dame study found high fluorine (a sign of PFAS) in 47% of mascaras tested and in many waterproof ones (82% is quoted in press), mostly not on the label. It measured fluorine, not harm. S20.
12. "Should I put mascara on my bottom lashes?" (@DianehiltzCanada) — Optional. Many artists use little or none after 40 because it casts shadows. If you do, dab lightly. Y3, Y2.
13. "How do I stop getting mascara on my eyelids?" (@HurshRoad) — Mirror below you, look down, prime the lid, wipe extra off the wand. Y9, Y18.
14. "Should I curl before or after?" (curler comments, Y9c) — Before, with a metal curler; after, only with a heated one. Y2, Y18.

15. "Can a curler make smudging worse?" (@SwampSagacity1014, Y9c: curlers "can make the mascara smudging problem worse by curling them backward to touch your hooded lid. They can also make your eyelashes look shorter") — On a hooded lid it can: a very strong curl pushes the lashes up into the fold of skin, where they print mascara. Curl gently and prime the lid (Y9). Cheap curlers can also pull lashes out (Y9), though a study found curler use didn't measurably change lash structure (S14).
16. "Is there a self-curling mascara?" (@user-zk8ed4kd2b) — Curling formulas and curved brushes help (Lash Idôle, Telescopic Lift, Dior Overcurl, Charlotte Tilbury), but none replaces a curler on very straight lashes. Y1, Y2, Y7.
17. "How often should I replace mascara?" (@vanessawilen2417: "we need to replace them every 3 months") — FDA: 2–4 months after purchase. Dr Dray: "about three months". S9, Y12.
18. "Why is my new mascara clumpy?" (@Rachierooh) — Too much on the wand, residue on lashes, waiting too long between coats, or pumping. Y7, Y9.
19. "Is there a brown version?" (@mlaiuppa) — The Luxe shop lists Black only, though two reviews on Luxe's own page mention a brown / black-brown (#37, #68). Brown tubing: Tarte, Blinc; brown-black: Thrive. S1, Y4, Y10, Y2.
20. "Is it cruelty-free?" (@theasullivan4227, 17 likes) — The brand says so; no Leaping Bunny or PETA (an animal-rights group that keeps a cruelty-free list) listing was found, so say "the brand says". S5.
21. "Does it work for hooded eyes?" (@Kim-ek7xy, almost 70: "it made my hooded eyes look smaller and I really couldn't see my eyelashes anymore to apply it", 30 likes, Y5 comments) — Tubing or smudge-resistant formulas help most, plus primer and technique. Untested for Luxe. Y7, Y9.
22. "I use eye drops all day. Which mascara?" (@donkiml5805; @bethirwin7445) — Drops can break tubing. Gentle, fragrance-free, removed nightly; talk to your eye doctor. Y15.
23. "Can I use it with lash extensions?" (Amazon title "Lash Extension Friendly") — The brand says so; oil-free formulas are the type that don't loosen glue. Y10.
24. "Can I use a lash serum with it?" (@carolgarrett5650) — Yes, at different times: mascara by day, serum at night on a clean lash line. Y20, pack 4.
25. "Is drugstore as good as expensive?" (@mireillefinch9276: "It's unlikely I'd ever spend $44 on mascara") — Often yes. Chemist: big brands "trickle down a lot of the same technology… to the more affordable options" (Y8); Dominique couldn't tell $4 from $44 (Y6).
26. "Is the 'conditioning' real or marketing?" (Luxe FAQ wording) — The softening oils and panthenol may make lashes feel softer, like hair conditioner. "Heals" and "growth" are not supported. S6, S18.
27. "Why do I have to throw it out if it's still full?" — Germs grow in the tube; in rare cases eye infections from cosmetics have caused blindness. S9.
28. "Can I put castor oil on my lashes instead?" (Rebecca, Y5; Face Value suggests it at night, Y1) — Many do at night. There's no good evidence it grows lashes; keep it out of the eye and off lashes before mascara.
29. "Does mascara make my lashes fall out?" (@josiejohnson_28) — Wearing it isn't the main problem; frequent use is linked to more lash-surface cracking, and rough removal pulls lashes out. S14, S13.

30. "What does 'ophthalmologist-tested' mean?" — Very little on its own: "could simply mean as they send me a product in the mail, give me a survey" (Dr Rupa, Y15).
31. "Is it waterproof?" (Amazon CA snippet "water resistance"; Luxe page) — The brand says both "Waterproof" and "comes off with warm water". It can't really be both.
32. "How long does one tube last?" — Size not found; replace every 2–4 months anyway (S9).
33. "Can I wear mascara with deep-set eyes?" (@meowwaffles6040, Y9c: "I thought I just couldn't wear mascara because of how deep set they are") — Yes. The tips that helped her are the hooded-eye ones: mirror below you, look down, wiggle the wand at the roots, and use the tip of the wand for corners (Y9). A slim brush reaches more easily (5.3).

9. Myths and truths

Myth	Truth	Source
"A peptide mascara grows your lashes."	No mascara study shows growth. The nearest evidence is a serum trial with no comparison group.	S18, S5
"Hypoallergenic means it can't irritate."	In the US the word has no legal definition.	S10
"Ophthalmologist-tested means an eye doctor approved it."	It can mean as little as a mailed survey.	Y15
"Waterproof is best for older eyes."	It holds curl and survives tears, but removal is harsh and daily use can clog oil glands. Fine occasionally.	Y14, Y3
"Tubing never smudges."	Warm tears, eye drops, sweat and humidity can break it down.	comments (@Corrine919, @JoyWinters-t4h, @bethirwin7445); Y3
"Tubing comes off with a finger swipe."	It needs warm water and a soak; cold water can pull lashes.	S7, Y6, Y21c
"All 'tubing' mascaras are true tubing."	A chemist found one that just turned to "mush".	Y8
"Pump the wand to get more product."	Pumping dries it out and causes clumps.	S7, Y9, Y18
"Expensive mascara is better."	A $4.97 and a $10.82 mascara matched a $44 one in a week's test.	Y6, Y8
"Lash curlers ruin lashes."	A study found no significant change in lash structure from curler use; mascara frequency mattered more. Clean the curler; avoid if allergic to nickel.	S14, Y12

Myth	Truth	Source
"You can add water to revive a dried tube."	It invites germs. Throw it out.	S9
"Mascara lasts until it's empty."	Replace 2–4 months after purchase.	S9
"Lashes go grey like hair."	Lashes grey only at a very advanced age and rarely go white.	S13
"More coats = more volume."	Many tubing formulas don't build; extra coats make chunks.	Y3
"Lower-lash mascara makes eyes bigger at any age."	Over 40 it often casts shadows and smudges.	Y3, Y2
"Natural ingredients can't cause allergy."	Wax and plant extracts can.	Y15
"Fibre mascara is a safe way to get length."	Fibres can fall into the eye and scratch the cornea.	Y2
"Use a pin to separate lashes."	Never: risk of stabbing the eye. Use a comb or spoolie.	Y12, Y18

10. The words viewers use

Word for word from comments (handle, likes where given; sources in S5 raw file unless marked Y9c, Y17c, Y21c) and from the brand's own words (S1, S2).

- "life saver for oily lids" (@apatheticowl3461, Y21c)
- "comes off like a glove" (@NaamaRonen, Y21c)
- "So easy to remove" (@Amy-bt2ti); "I don't lose any lashes with them"
- "It washes off very easily" (@MmeO, age 67, 11 likes)
- "doesn't smear, flake, irritate and it comes off like a tube with just water" (@anitadrink5499, Blinc)
- "makes me feel pretty" (@jamiebrennan5779, age 64, 76 likes)
- "I will never give up my mascara.EVER!" (@robiness5344, 125 likes)
- "lash noodles" (Dominique, Y6); "little tubes like noodles" (Y6)

The brand's own words S1, S2

- "My eyelashes are different now"
- "shorter, lighter, harder to find"
- "It isn't your technique"
- "Not one was built for YOU"
- "panda eyes by 3 PM"
- "the dark lash line quietly disappearing"

- "Every lash left on a cotton pad feels personal"
- "no nightly tug-of-war"
- "Your lashes were never the problem. Your old mascara was."

Simple word bank: invisible lashes, bare eyes, tired eyes, raccoon eyes, panda eyes, smudge, flake, clump, spider, droop, hooded, crepey, scrub, tug, rip out, sting, burn, water, itch, warm water, slide off, noodles, tubes, lift, curl, separate, fan out, wispy, natural, soft black, brown-black, awake, open, pulled together, pretty, years younger.

11. Safety, and what you can and can't say on camera (short)

Safety

- Patch-test new eye makeup; stop at stinging, itching, redness or swelling; see a doctor if it doesn't settle (S9, Y15).
- Don't use eye makeup during an eye infection; throw out what you were using (S9).
- After eye surgery, wait for the surgeon's OK.
- Replace 2–4 months after opening; never add water or saliva; never share; no shop testers (S9).
- Never apply in a moving car (S9).
- No pins near the eye (Y12).
- Contact lenses: in before makeup, out before removal (S23).
- Remove it every night (Y12, Y13).
- Luxe's ingredient list is not published: anyone with a known allergy, or worried about hidden prostaglandins (e.g. isopropyl cloprostenate, Y15), should read the box first.

Can't say on camera (drug-type claims under FDA rules, S11)

- "heals your lashes", "grows lashes", "fast growth", "regrows", "stops lash loss", "restores your 20-year-old lashes".
- Don't present the brand's "clinical" numbers (100%, 98%, 97%, "2,844 women") or "dermatologist-approved" as fact; no study was found.
- Don't say "hypoallergenic" or "safe for contacts" as a promise.

Can say

- "looks longer / fuller / darker", "separates", "didn't smudge on me after X hours", "came off with warm water in my test", "the brand says it contains conditioning peptides".

Part 2: The reviews

1. What the reviews tell us (simple English)

1. There is very little independent review text about the Luxe mascara itself. Almost every Luxe review with words in it sits on Luxe's own shops: 80 reviews. Amazon shows mostly star averages: 4.0 stars from 73 ratings (UK) and 3.6 stars from 93 ratings (Canada), from search snippets (date of capture unknown). The only Amazon review text found is one line: "A great mascara that does not clump and is a pretty color" (#287). Luxe's UK shop-wide review feed was searched too: it holds no mascara reviews (its reviews are of lash-lift kits, tints, serums and other products), but 29 of them talk about mascara (8 quoted here as #279–#286). No YouTube video comment reviews the Luxe mascara: the one Luxe Short found (f4uAyWYG5dQ) has 2 comments, and neither is a review.
2. What Luxe's own reviews say (all 4 or 5 stars): it stays put with no black smudges (39 of 80 mention this), it makes thin, short lashes look longer and fuller (35), it does not sting sensitive or watery eyes (13 say so outright), it survives water, heat, tears and sweat (20: a funeral, a pool, a 110-degree day, hot flashes), and the skinny wand reaches the small corner lashes and suits shaky hands. Four reviews name a downside: it needs a proper makeup remover or effort to take off (2), the tube is small, and there is no navy colour.
3. Where the Luxe reviews come from: all 80 are from Luxe's own shop pages, and 78 of them sit on the waterproof listing. So their praise for "waterproof" and "needs a remover" may describe the waterproof version, not the warm-water conditioning version. They are also short: none is longer than 295 characters (about three lines; average 162), so the long, story-style reviews in this file come from rival shops and YouTube.
4. Real buyer reviews are plentiful for the rivals, and they come from older women. Thrive Liquid Lash Extensions has 50,508 reviews on its own site, average 4.46 stars. In the 1,000 five-star Thrive reviews pulled, 695 of the 968 that give an age are 55 or over (72%), and 423 are 65 or over (44%). In 300 one-star Thrive reviews, 172 of 260 with an age are 55+ (66%). The person who writes about tubing mascara is, most of the time, a woman over 55.
5. The number-one thing older women want is no smudging (86 reviews mention it). They describe years of black marks under the eyes: "Every single mascara I've tried over the last 30 years plus ends up transferring onto the foundation under my eyes" (#249, age 66). The tubing type is what fixes it for most of them.
6. The second is easy removal without rubbing (62 reviews). “With my older skin scrubbing is a big "no-no".” (#98). An eye nurse (140 likes) warns not to rub the eyes at all; the tubes come off with water (#197).
7. Third: sensitive, watery or dry eyes (25 reviews describe the problem; 25 say a product did not irritate them). Many had stopped wearing mascara because of itching or tears, then found a tubing formula that did not sting (#92, #96).

8. What goes wrong (64 complaint reviews, almost all about rivals): clumping when a second coat goes on after the first has dried; flaking after a few weeks as the tube dries out; lashes that droop or lose their curl; a look that is too thin for very sparse lashes ("it didn't work on my 67 year old lashes", #83); smearing in rain, tears or humidity; and, for some, hard removal. Side effects caused by the product are rare in this sample (5): lash breakage after sleeping in it, swollen lids, itching and burning, and bits getting into the eye during removal.
9. Women over 60 have extra problems that younger reviewers never mention: hooded lids (skin folding down over the eyelid) that catch the mascara, shaky or arthritic hands, poor close-up eyesight after cataract surgery (an operation to replace the clouded lens inside the eye), and lashes that are now grey, thin or gone. Hooded lids, hands and eyesight come up in 7 reviews (theme P6). 15 reviews describe giving up mascara, or nearly giving up, before finding one that worked (or not).
10. Price matters. 34 reviews talk about price. Thrive costs about $26 and many say a $5 to $12 drugstore (cheap supermarket or chemist brand) tubing mascara (Essence, e.l.f., Milani, Maybelline Sky Tubes) works as well: "I don't want to spend over $25 for mascara especially when we need to replace them every 3 months" (#222, 190 likes).
11. "How long did it take?" Mascara works the moment it goes on, so reviews never talk about weeks to see results. The time words are about wear time (all day, 12 hours, 15 hours, "7am to 9pm") and tube life (it dries out or starts to flake after 45 days to 2 or 3 months).
12. PrimeLash ("mascara for older women"): only 2 YouTube comments and three passing mentions were found, because its review feed could not be loaded (section 6). Two of the mentions say it was dry or harder to remove than promised (#82, #178); one Luxe page review says Luxe was "better" (#45).

4. Themes, with counts

How I counted. Each review can sit in more than one theme. Themes marked "keyword" were counted by a script that searches the review text for set words (for example "smudge", "raccoon", "transfer" for P1), ignoring "no smudging", "doesn't clump" and similar. Themes marked "hand" (complaints, side effects, gentle on eyes, gave up) I read and marked one by one, because the keyword search confused "doesn't flake" with "flakes". Keyword counts are close, not exact: treat them as "about".

Title: Best Masacara EVER

> My entire life I have had to purchase mascara, put it on just to find out that I react to it. It’s a lot of money down the drain. My daughter came across your products over a decade ago and she said, Mom try my mascara. As a red hair freckle face with a reaction to everything, I was very skeptical. I put it on…. and it stayed without a reaction. In fact, I wore it all day. I was absolutely shocked. I had become so accustomed to using minimal products, only when I went on date night with my husband… then washing them off within 3 to 4 hours. Absolutely life-changing. I can say as a sixty year old woman, I look better than ever because I can use products that are safe for my skin, while still highlighting my best attributes.

Title: Don’t believe review sites that claim Prime is better than Thrive

> I’ve been a LLE aficionado for a year or two now — but last month, I found myself with a terrible eye infection. So, out of an overabundance of caution, I threw away my half-full Brynn and Crystal tubes. When I recovered, I thought, “the interwebs suggest that Prime Prometics’ mascara is even better. I’ll try that!” What a mistake. It barely coats the lashes — and yet despite claiming that it’s a tubing mascara that comes off with warm water, it required an oil based makeup remover to come off cleanly at night. I just ordered a new tube of LLE and am so much happier with it. True to its name, it makes my lashes longer and thicker without clumping. And true to its promises, it comes off with just warm water.

Title: Finally splurged

> I finally spent more than I ever do on mascara. I bought two tubes, one for me and one for my daughter. The colors are nice and her green looks pretty with her green eyes. Unfortunately, I am not getting the results I was expecting with my mine. I guess my lashes are just too old. After curling, and with two coats, my lashes were still flat and stuck together. I tried to curl again and the mascara came off at the base of my lashes. I ended up just taking it all off and going bare as usual. I think I need a thicker formula. This mascara is nice but it didn't work on my 67 year old lashes.

Title: Love it!

> I absolutely love this mascara! It’s the best I’ve ever tried and after having eye surgery recently (upper blepharoplasty) I wanted something that would show off my ‘new’ eyes yet would come off easily. This mascara checks all the boxes! Easy to apply, holds up all day, and comes off super easy with warm water. That was really important to me to avoid tugging the eye area. The mascara also gives great coverage and a nice full lash look without clumping. I’ve seen absolutely no flaking. I live in FL where it’s hot and humid and this stays put! Highly recommend! I found ‘the one’ !

> I LOVE this mascara!! I had used the same mascara for probably 40 years and it had started irritating my eyes to the point that I usually just didn’t bother to put it on. I like the brush of the brand I used as much as anything I think. Anyway, I have tried others through the years but always went back with my old standby. A friend recommended your mascara to me. I loved the way it looked on her lashes so I decided to give it a try. I will NEVER go back to my old favorite!! Thrive lengthens my lashes, doesn’t flake at all, and it doesn’t irritate my eyes!!!

> My daughter bought me my first tube. She said I needed to not use grocery store mascara anymore. I started to get compliments on my mascara. One time when I ran out, I bought comprable mascara from a department store. Not even near the same. Now I buy both Liquid Lash Volumizer Mascara and Liquid Lash Extender Mascara. Love them both. I wear the Voluminizer more as an everyday mascara & use the Extender mascara for more dramatic evenings. I have recommended this to friends & had them request I order an extra tube for them. > I love this mascara! This is first time trying it and I'm very pleased with it! As an aging beauty (62), I've had trouble with mascara smudging after a couple hours of wear. This did not budge once I put it on. And, I love the applicator - my lashes are thinning with age and it's a great tool to get the most coverage! It does lengthen if you layer and the best part is how easy it is to remove at the end of the day. I no longer have to rub my eyes back and forth with a makeup remover - it just slips right off without smudging!

I purchased a very expensive brand that was supposed to be smudge proof, water proof, etc etc proof. Well I looked like a raccoon by the end of my work day. Only thing this brand was proof of, is that I will not purchase it. I purchased another brand hoping I would get better results. Well that went in the bin. > Thrive tubing mascara is simply THE best. My eyelashes are much longer and in better condition with this product. Daily, I use eye serums but my eyelashes don’t grow when I’m using other mascaras, but they do with Thrive. I’ve tried so many different tubing mascaras in the UK, as sadly we are unable to purchase Thrive mascara here. (Thank goodness for US friends who help me buy it there). > I can’t say enough of how liberating this mascara has been to my beauty routine. I am 62 and have for the majority of my adult life used high end mascara from major well known brands (Lancôme and Lauder). Although they worked well… the mess and removal was always a nightmare. With this mascara I achieve the same quality without the messy removal and I don’t have the eye irritation that sometimes accompanied the other brands. My new go to! Recommend 100 percent.

> Thrives tubing mascara goes on like a dream and lasts all day. It isn't water proof and if it gets wet it will smug a bit. Overall though, if you stay dry it looks great all day. It is super easy to take off with warm water. I also use a face wash but you don't need to. Once your face and eyes are wet, just gently pull the tubes off your lashes. It leaves your lashes totally clean. I think it works great and my lashes are fabulous. Who needs falsies?!

Title: Awesome mascara

> I’m 68 yrs old. I’ve tried hundreds of different mascaras, that say waterproof, no flaking, no way. This mascara is a miracle worker. I can get through a whole day of work, with out having to check every hour if I have black smudges around my eyes. Another plus is, since I don’t have to constantly rub my under eyes, my eyes are less crepy, smooth and brighter looking. Thank you thrive ! Jodi, NY

Title: Wonderful mascara, gentle on the lashes

> This is undoubtedly the best mascara I’ve ever used. I have very sensitive skin where the eyelashes attach. I’ve tried so many different mascaras over the years but I would end up with irritated eyelids. I had quit even bothering to try using mascara. Now I wear mascara all day with no problem whatsoever. I am so pleased that I took a chance on this product. Highly recommend.

Title: Great product

> I love how this goes on and lengthens so easily and quickly. I also love how easily it comes off. The only part that's a bit of a negative is when the mascara pieces get on your skin, instead of sticking to a wipe, they just get pushed around on your skin and are hard to get off. If you remove it in the shower, that's the easiest way because the water easily washes it off.

Title: 5 Stars

> I am an older gal and I have tried lots of different mascaras but have found Thrive to be my favorite. I love the lash extension look but my favorite thing is that it comes off completely and easily without scrubbing or using other removers. With my older skin scrubbing is a big "no-no". Thrive makes my make-up removal a breeze! Totally a 5 star rating from me!

Title: I was so looking forward

> I was so looking forward to getting my mascara but I have to tell you maybe it was the color but I wasn’t impressed with it for the amount of money it cost. I felt like I have used other mascaras that make my Lashes look longer. Def. Easy to take off so I did like that but again not for how much it costs. Therefore I will not be purchasing this product again.

> My eyelashes appear to be longer and thicker after I apply Liquid Lash Extensions Tubing Mascara!! The color, Crystal, (brown black) seems to compliment my dark brown eyes. I gave up the blackest black of another brand that I have used since 1977! Yep, I finally found a product that I am not allergic to (any product with formaldehyde in it) LOVE ❤️ LOVE ❤️

Title: Not Goopy, Easy to apply

> Best yet. I don't use a lot of eye makeup. The mascara goes on lightly and can be reapplied as many times as you wish. Eyeliner makes my eyes look to overdone, in my opinion. They only time I would use it would be if I am on stage under bright lights. So for that reason, I like that I can control how heavy my lashes look. I go for an understated elderly lady look, and have been complimented on my appearance.

Title: Disappointed

> It started out good. I have had it for approx 2 1/2 months. I do not use it everyday only bc I don’t put mascara on every day and the color. Today I went to out it on and the circular ring must have disconnected and it was so much mascara on the wand. I was unable to apply it. There was so much mascara looked like paint. I’m sure it doesn’t happen often. I probably just got lucky☹️

Title: I fell for it

> After being sucked into the belief that the purple mascara would make my green eyes really pop, I ordered a tube. It took about 10 days to receive it. Used it the next day. I thought that the drag on each brush of my lashes was more noticeable than other mascaras. I thought it would be something I would dismiss after seeing how pretty it would look. No such thing. It dried rather quickly so there was no time to build length without it getting clumpy. The purple is so dim that I really can not notice it (neither did my 29 year old fashionista daughter that always notices my makeup). The only thing truly purple is the applicator. I am very disappointed and will not purchase again.

Title: Tubing not for women over 50

> A much deserved star anti animal cruelty policy. I've searched for a mascara to enhance my fine lashes. Thrive's commercials seem to promise that, but the reality is different. Seeing that it functioned as a conditioning product I placed an order late August '26. Was so excited for mascara. Regrettably used only once and now sits in a throw away box. The lip and brighter had better results w/ brightner as best. Thrive touts itself a solution for women 50+ yet majority of mascaras are shown on models are in 20s. I had great lashes then too:).

> The best I have ever used. I used this product a few years ago and always bought it as a gift for family members. I stopped because I had eyelash extensions for a while (never will I do that again). Once removed, I noticed my natural lashes were not the same:(Tried regular mascara but lashes are too short to notice. I then purchased Thrive again, and WOW, I now have lashes again. This will forever be my go-to. Hoping my lashes grow back to normal.

Title: Can’t even tell which eye is wearing it.

> I’ve read so many good reviews that I was excited to try this. Unfortunately, my experience was not good. My lashes are very straight but respond well to eyelash curler. With my usual cheap mascara the curl lasts all day. With this product, the curl immediately disappeared and it looked almost as though I was wearing nothing. I’ll bet that you can’t even tell from the pic which eye is wearing it. (It’s the left). Wish I hadn’t wasted my money on it.

> Unfortunately this mascara doesn't work for me. You have to stroke it many times before getting any length. This causes clumps and flaking. And my lashes have a good length and I always receive compliments with other mascara. I did not order anything else because I've never ordered from this company. So it's not worth sending back. > I was really excited to try this mascara based on the hype on social media. I couldn't be more disappointed with the product. The Mulberry color makes me look like I have Pink-Eye. > The first application from the brand new tube was wonderful-my lashes looked great! But after the initial use, the mascara goes on clumpy and leaves flakes under my eyes after an hour or so. Title: Broke my lashes off

> Broke my lashes off. At first I thought it was my imagination. I have naturally long lashes but wanted to “lift” my eyes up a bit. However, why would my lashes be suddenly shorter after using this product? Then I googled it and saw many people with the same experience. However those reviews never seemed to make it to Thrive Causemetic’s website. Hmm. I know it says to remove with warm water but WARNING if you go to bed without removing it, say goodbye to your lashes. Next morning no mascara and no lashes. Throwing it out. Will never use this or any other “tubing” mascara again. I only hope my lashes grow back.

Title: Disappointed

> I am not a regular mascara user, only use about once a week. I wanted to love this product but so far I don’t. The first time I used it, it smeared and looked terrible. The 2nd time I used it, I wiped some of the mascara off the brush so it would not be so thick on my lashes, it still smeared and left little clumps on my eyes. I am now afraid to use it because in the summer heat and when I cry it leaves my eyes a mess. I’m glad this company is for a worthy cause but I will not purchase again.

Title: Not impressed with overall results

> I am on day three of using this mascara and still not impressed. I put it on just as instructed and I end up with one eye clumping. The first eye is okay, not as nice as the video example, but okay. I wait a minute then go to the other eye and I get clumps that I have to comb out. Which ends up removing a lot of the product. I’ve tried less time and more time between eyes and get the same results. I will not be buying again.

Title: Expensive yet disappointing

> Was looking for a mascara that did all the things Thrive Lash Extensions promised. Thought something that cost more than double my old standby did must be totally awesome. But it wasn't. The color (Elena) is so subtle, you don't see the tint. And the brush leaves clumps. Although it spread relatively well, my lashes were clumpy, short and far less than stellar. Will not buy again. Title: Mascara not what I expected

> First, I am 76 years old. I have long lashes and use mascara everyday. When I tried the mascara for the first time I put on a thin layer. When it dried, my lashes were very stiff and hard. Title: Disappointed

> I really wanted to love this mascara, my eyelashes seemed to be thinning out and it promised to help build and lengthen. However, it does no better job than my $7. 00 Maybelline mascara. It was also a lighter color than the black/brown label indicated. This is the second time I've been disappointed by one of this company's products: the Sheer Strength lip gloss was also not as expected, it was not at all moisturizing, nor did it have a gloss tint effect. I will say the brilliant eye brightened is, in fact, brilliant and wonderful--I love it. I don't want to seem like nothing has worked well for me!

Title: Great for sensitive eyes but very hard to remove.

> It has very little to no flaking. But is extremely hard to remove. I can get my other mascara off with just my microfiber cloths and even easier with eye makeup remover liquids but this one comes off flaky and chunky and actually gets into my eye and sticks to my lower inner eyelids and causing me to have to pull on my skin around my eye multiple times to take it all off. I love that it doesn't make my eyes burn or sting while wearing it but once it gets inside my eye when taking it off it does of course. Their other mascara is super flaky. I wish there was an in-between.

> I like that it is cruelty free, that's a big plus. I am looking for a new mascara as the one that I had been using for decades all of a sudden, the new tube that I bought, stung my eyes. Title: It's ok

> I'm not loving it so far. I don't know what "tubing" means, but I have used it 5 or 6 times. I do not allow excessive air to get into the tube and yet it seems clumpy. Little clumps get on the tips of my lashes. There seems to be so much mascara accumulated on the base. It would be nice if there was another mascara option with a brush rather than the plastic applicator.

> This was a freebie that came with an order. So I wasn't especially invested in it. However, I am liking this mascara and thinking it will be a future purchase. I'm liking the consistency as it goes on without clumping. I find that I need to wait about a minute before adding a second coat to keep lashes separated. My lashes look longer as well (although I am using GrandeLash as well). I wouldn't mind if the applicator brush was a little longer.

Title: Amazing!!

> I don't wear a lot of black mascaras. As someone with blue eyes, they tend to make my eyes look less blue. However, I changed my tune for the GrandeMascara. A lot of mascaras also make my thin eyelashes pretty clumpy, but GrandeMascara worked perfectly and looked almost like I wasn't wearing mascara on my first coat, and just gave them volume on the second. They looked bigger, bolder, but not clumpy and unnatural. I have definitely started reaching for GrandeMascara on the daily rather than my normal brown mascara, which is definitely out of the norm for me, and I am really excited!

Title: Where have you been all my life!!

> I have constantly been trying different mascara's.... trying to find the one that actually does but it claims to do. Time and time again they end up disappointing. Smudges, clumps, flakes, gone by the end of the day, won't lengthen or plump. So frustrating. I'm talking drugstore and high end brands. I tried Ilia mascara because of it's clean formulation and was happy with it until after wearing it for a few hours. If my eyes would even slightly get watery, the mascara stung my eyes to the point I had to remove it. This happened several times so I discontinued using it. Fast forward along comes Tarte Tartelette! This is the clear, undisputed champion of mascara's. Promises made, promises kept. Thank you for making such an outstanding mascara. I then go in with a black Ulta mascara “Ultimate Lashes”, then I finish with a layer of the Caliray tubing mascara. Beautiful combination. My lashes are long, dark, and thick. To remove tubing mascara, you have to use warm to hot water, warm up your lashes, use your finger tips to grip your lashes and pull off the tubes. Easy peasy!

Title: Very natural, not buildable

> Love the color as I am blonde and brown looks great. I however do not like how this formula is not buildable whatsoever. It is an extremely natural look, which I really like sometimes, but if you think you might want more, keep in mind this product will not give that. Feels nice, a little more patience to remove with just water than other tubing mascaras I've tried but true to tubing mascaras, great definition, no clumping, smooth formula. REAL smooth. Not buildable.

Title: Why am I only hearing about Blinc Mascara now?!

> This stuff is seriously amazing! I have 3 serious issues when it comes to eye makeup: oily skin, sensitive eyes, and I live in a hot humid climate. No amount of waterproofing, priming, etc. was ever enough to stop me from looking like a red-eyed raccoon at the end of the work day (not cute at all). So, when I saw a YouTuber raving about Blinc, I figured I might as well try it since I'd already tried pretty much everything else out there. I tried it out at home on a Sunday (before being brave enough to wear it to work). Put it on first thing in the morning, did some chores, went to the gym, ran some errands...15 hours later it still looked fresh! No flaking, no smudges, no burning sensation. I'm seriously obsessed and hope that Blinc never changes this formula because it's PERFECTION!

Title: Mascara is great (but no more brown?)

> After going through an embarrassing number of mascaras, I finally found Blinc and love it -- long wear, no flakes, easy to remove -- what's not to love? Okay, one thing: according to a Blinc CSR the Medium Brown shade has been discontinued. There isn't even a Dark Brown shade anymore. Why, Blinc? With light skin and hair tones, Medium Brown gave me a natural look. I really miss it! Black is good for dramatic eyes, the Dark Green is so dark you can only see green in the brightest light, and the Dark Blue is NOT dark, it really does look very blue even in moderate light. (Someday I will have to try Dark Purple, but if it is as bright a shade as the blue, it may not work for me.) Thanks for the great mascara, Blinc, now bring back Medium Brown!

I have never written a makeup review but this trio earned my praise! After all day wear, even a nap, it looked exactly like when I applied this morning! I had smallclumps inside corner of my eyes that I just gently wiped away. But with my conditions I was amazed! The only product that held up, and I’ve tried many. THANK YOU. Title: best mascara ever

> No smudging. I have tried EVERY mascara sold in USA and Canada. drugstore to high end brands, all formulations, sealers and water proof blah blah. all have smudged or flaked on me leaving me dissapointed and poor, with raccoon eyes, EXCEPT this brand. it will NOT move until YOU take it off. and the removal of it is easy with any remover, oil or soap. just saturate and wipe off the tubes. You can even cry your eyes out, and as long as you dont rub your eyes out, it will stay on lol. The best part? it has the best coverage, definition, and lengthening of all mascaras on my puny lashes, like no lashes to bambi effect.

Title: Perfect for me

> I have been using Blinc mascara and eye liner for at least 4 years now. The mascara is very dependable. It has never smeared or bled. This version does not add much volume, but I have never really been a big eyelash "volume" person. For me it is perfect. Easy on and STAYS ON. Comes off fairly easily with gentle pressure under water (like in the shower), a bit more pressure if washing face in the sink. You can cry yours eyes out at a funeral and have very minimal loss of the mascara. I've personally experienced that. I STRONGLY recommend the eyeliner (liquid version - I have not tried the newer pencils).

Title: PLEASE FIX THE TUBE SO THE SEAL STAYS PUT! Love the color selection!

> Love the color selection so much, since I primarily wear blue mascara, which is difficult to find--especially in a natural "finish." The formula also stays put, which is crucial. Another brand that is also natural loses me since it smudges, which is not an issue with this mascara. I also love the new wand (the former wand was too difficult to manage). With that said, I find myself not buying this mascara just due to the seal constantly coming un-done, which causes the mascara to come out in globs, wasting product and ruining the mascara. PLEASE FIX THIS ISSUE and this will be my go to mascara!

Title: Great formula.

> I purchased this mascara at the Las Vegas esthetics show this last summer for the first time. I love the idea behind it. I also love your ultra thin liner. Please keep this liner! It is one of my favorite things. Anyway back to mascara, the formulation is great, I absolutely love how easy it comes off and it doesn't give me raccoon eyes. The only con if I have to list one, would be the brush itself, it would be nice to have either more then one brush option or a fluffier brush altogether. Other then that, I love this mascara and as an esthetician, I tell my clients about your products.

Title: Fantastic product!

> I am not a makeup person and I love this mascara. I bought it for my wedding on the recommendation of a friend, and am a fan for life. With other eye mascaras my sensitive eyes would water or sting, and I have not noticed that with blinc. I also love how you don't have to scrub your eyes to get it off at the end of the day. The tubes are soft and flexible, so you don't get poked when you remove them, either! I like the natural, non-cakey look that stays all day but gives your lashes extra definition. The tube also lasts a long time and I think it is a good value. 10/10 would recommend.

> I just wore the Sky Tubes for the first time. The color was called Very Black, but it didn't seem as black as what I have been using, which is Elf Lash Xtender. I have very thin straight lashes and I could not tell that it was any better or worse Than Lash Xtender. I don't find that either of them really come off easily, but that's okay because I have to use makeup remover to get my eyeliner off anyway. If anything, maybe the separation was better.

> This is the incredible shrinking mascara. I put it on and it just disappeared. I put on more, same thing. Then my lashes which naturally curl straight upward drooped. I don't get how it could be that bad. I ended up with short clumpy lashes, at which point I just took it off. Will stick with Tarte tubing mascara or Caliray, great lashes everytime.

> I agree with everything you've said. I can't remember ever wearing a mascara that made my lashes look so good. I bought this about a month ago, and I love it! I have tiny little lashes and sensitive eyes. My eyelashes actually looked like eyelashes and I got compliments. It doesn't clump on me and my lashes look defined. The wand worked really well for me too (I poke myself in the eye more often than not). But, I did get some fallout after a very long day so watch for that. Removal was also very easy. Definitely my current fave!

It’s not unfair, it’s meant to be used that way, I’ve recommended that drugstore fave to anyone that would listen for decades. And as far as your first place pick, the Maybelline Sky High seems to be exactly the same as that Tartlette first pick you chose, half tubing with a little bit of smearing in the removal, however, the mascara looks beautiful and it’s super cheap. > I use a different method for removing tubing mascara which I think is better because you're not putting that glop down the drain. I use a Neutrogena make-up wipe to take off the make-up, then run the water until warm/hot and wet the wipe under the water. Press the warm wipe up to your eyes a few times, then use the same “pinching” technique you showed, but with the wipe! All the tubes come off on the wipe and you can just disard it.

> I find tubing mascara comes off best by just swishing your eyes with warm water under a running tap. It basically comes all off. I love tubing mascara because I have terrible transfer on my under eyes from regular mascara. I never used to, but as I aged it got worse and worse. I LOVE tubing mascara for that reason. Can wear it all day without smudging on my undereye.

> I so wish I had taken a before image! The kit was simple to use. I managed to do both eyes at the same time and I am super impressed with the results! Until now, the only mascara that kept a lift in my lashes was Mac Perm Me up, otherwise, my lashes would be straight soon after applying mascara, even after curling. I don't even need mascara on my top lashes after tinting them.

> I have naturally very long eyelashes but they’re super straight and downwards facing with no curl whatsoever. Normally if I don’t wear loads of mascara I don’t even look like I have eyelashes! I’ve always been a sucker for spending heaps on different types of mascara going to get curled lashes but until trying this luxe lash lift I haven’t really seen results… but omg…! I don’t even think I did it correctly as I didn’t use the lash comb and didn’t trim the pads so missed half my lashes and let me say my lashes look the best they’ve ever looked! I got the free tint with it and they look like lash extensions no joke! I love them so much and will deffo be using this from now on! Just amazing! Instructions are clear, you get loads of everything for loads of applications and the results speak for themselves!

> Not being dramatic but this product has literally changed my life. I'd always dread using an eyelash curler and applying mascara to my short, straight lashes every morning. It was like a loosing battle!! Luxe allows me to roll out of bed and feel amazing. They last for WEEKS. Honestly best thing ever. I will keep repurchasing forever!!!! Cannot rate enough 🥰🥰🥰🥰🥰

> Never stop doing this product!! it will be "my go to now". I don't have to wear mascara now in the day and when I do, I don't get the previous smudging I was experiencing. I did not think it was going to work aswell as it did. I'm extremely impressed!

> The pads come off very easily at the edges and corners of the eyes. But once you've mastered that, the lashes are a dream 🥰 I had perfectly straight lashes and no tool or mascara could help. I had glued on lash bands and tufts, magnetic lashes and lash extensions and wasn't satisfied with anything because it was a lot of effort to apply or maintain. Here I have 4-6 weeks of great curved lashes and when they are tinted I don't even have to mascara! Brilliant!

> I have such straight lashes, which bothers me so much and it usually takes me 20 minutes to lift them when I put mascara on. I can't believe I got lashes like this for so little money in the long run. I paid so much at the salon, oh god. I'm so insanely happy with the results:)

> My eyelashes are naturally short and sometimes broken off because of my eyelash curler. When I saw Luxe on tiktok I just wanted to try it and I am really very satisfied. The application is simple, it smells pleasant. I continued to use mascara and the effect still remains

> Lashes are lifted and curled so nicely. Two pictures with mascara and one just without mascara. So impressed with how easy this kit is to use and how the mascara doesn’t make the lashes fall (usually they do). Not sure how long they last since I’ve only curled them 6 days ago but happy with this kit and have already ordered again!
